GOREY TAKES HOLD OF WORK

Spends Day in Office of United States Steel Corporation.

MEETS ASSISTANTS

Schwab Does Not Leave Hotel and Declines to Further Discuss Change.

SUBJECT OF MUCH GOSSIP

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, July 1.

It is said upon good authority that Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, will leave New York very soon to travel for his health. He was not at his office today, and at the Lorraine, where he was found, he refused to be interviewed. Since the appointment of W. E. Corey as assistant to the president gossip has chiefly centered around Mr. Schwab.

A conservative element of men, who perhaps are in better touch with the situation than is generally supposed, are inclined to treat Mr. Schwab with all fairness and look upon his illness as a misfortune that is solely responsible for the appointment of Mr. Corey. It is denied that the affairs of the United States Shipbuilding Company had anything to do with the change. No one tries to hide the fact that Mr. Schwab is being attacked, though perhaps not maliciously. These statements are probably due to an exaggerated form of ignorance. A personal friend of Mr. Schwab said today:

Situation in Nutshell.

"Mr. Schwab will not resign the presidency of the United States Steel Corporation, but will continue in his position. Mr. Corey will be an assistant to Mr. Schwab, as he has been the last 15 years, and will carry out Mr. Schwab's policies in all important matters, relieving Mr. Schwab of a huge mass of detail which he could not handle and at the same time retain his health. Mr. Schwab and Mr. Corey are old personal and business friends. Mr. Schwab selected Mr. Corey for this work and the appointment of Mr. Corey was not a 'concession.'

"Mr. Schwab, who has recently been feeling the strain of attention to petty and harassing details, will take a vacation of a month or two in this country. He is not critically ill, but he simply needs rest.

"An effort has been made in this controversy over the shipbuilding trust to make Mr. Schwab appear as the villain in the play. But as a matter of fact he has done all in his power to help the shipbuilding people out of their difficulty, even at a considerable personal loss to himself. He was and is more than ready to take back the Bethlehem Steel Company on any reasonable terms, as he stated in an open letter."

Corey Visits Office.

W. E. Corey, who is to perform the active duties of the presidency, was at the office of the corporation today familiarizing himself with the duties of his new position. Mr. Schwab did not appear. There was, however, no lack of high officers present to meet, greet and confer with the assistant president.

Among those who called to pay their respects to the new official were Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee; James Gayley, first vice president, and W. B. Dickson, second vice president of the steel corporation. There were numerous other officials who joined in congratulating the new active head of the great corporation.

Mr. Corey visited various of the offices, and before the day was over was well in the business. He will make his headquarters in New York, and will occupy offices on the eighteenth floor of the Empire building, No. 71 Broadway. When seen this afternoon Mr. Corey declined to be interviewed.

"I do not care to see my name in print," said he, "but I want to be on friendly terms with the newspapers and newspaper men." C. P. GRENEKER.

CARNEGIE STEEL PLANS ARE STILL UNFIXED

No meeting of the directors of the Carnegie Steel Company has yet been called and it was stated yesterday that none is expected now to follow up the announcement of the appointment of W. E. Corey as assistant to the president of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Whether Mr. Corey will resign as president of the Carnegie Steel Company is yet to be determined. It is said that such an arrangement as that by which he goes to the Steel Corporation may be made in the transaction of the affairs of the Carnegie Steel Company. Homer J. Lindsay now holds the title of assistant to the president of the Carnegie Steel Company. It was suggested that Mr. Corey may turn over to Mr. Lindsay the active management of the company's affairs in order that Mr. Corey himself may give more of his time to the corporation.

It was also suggested that a practical operating man, such as A. C. Dinkey, general superintendent of the Homestead works, may be placed at the head of the Carnegie Steel Company to succeed Mr. Corey, in case of his resignation. W. W. Blackburn and Col. H. P. Bope of the executive department have likewise been mentioned in a number of rumors.

SMITH NAMED AS RECEIVER

New Jersey Ex-Senator Given Control of Shipbuilding Company.

APPOINTED BY JUDGE

Lawyers for Defense Continue to Protest Against Action Taken by Court.

DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, July 1.

The United States Shipbuilding Company will hereafter be directed by a receiver, according to the decree of Judge Kirkpatrick, issued today in the United States circuit court at Newark. Ex-Senator James Smith, Jr., of Newark, N. J., was named as receiver. He has signified his acceptance of the office, and his bond has been fixed at $10,000.

C. C. Deming of Alexander & Green, the law firm which was legal sponsor for the shipyard trust, as late as this morning formally protested against the appointment of the receiver. The lawyers would not agree upon the receiver.

Mr. Smith will enter upon an investigation of the tangled affairs of the shipyard trust tomorrow.

The concluding paragraph of the decree signed by Judge Kirkpatrick contains the usual phrase restraining the defendants from selling, transferring or in any way disposing of the several properties or from interfering with the management of the receiver.

This is the knotty problem that confronts Max Pam, Mr. Schwab's personal counsel and one of the nine directors who are consulting daily in Mr. Nixon's office. In the circular letter to the bondholders it was said:

"The receiver will immediately inaugurate a thorough and impartial investigation of the company's affairs, the result of which will, we expect, give a somewhat different aspect to the value of the bonds, and which may also, explain why the Bethlehem Steel Company is not contributing out of its admittedly large net profits toward the shipyards company, so as to enable the latter to reduce its floating debt and pay the interest on its bonds."

Immediately following Judge Kirkpatrick's announcement of the selection of a receiver, nine directors met in Mr. Nixon's office in this city. They tried to get C. M. Schwab to meet with them, were unsuccessful, took a recess, reconvened, telephoned again to Mr. Schwab with no better success, and then adjourned to meet again tomorrow. A circular letter was sent to all the bondholders. The resignation of Mr. Nixon was not acted upon.

Judge Kirkpatrick, besides signing a decree giving to the receiver plenary powers, verbally added the observation that it would be the duty of the receiver to confer with the Sheldon reorganization committee, as a part of his first efforts to extricate the concern from its financial slough. Judge Kirkpatrick said the receiver would not assume immediate control over the subsidiary companies.

BIG IRON DEAL MADE.

Pittsburgh Capitalists Secure Plants in Texas Abandoned on Bursting of Boom.

AUSTIN, TEX., July 1.—(Special.)—The deal recently put under way by Pittsburgh steel magnates to develop the iron ore industry of Texas was consummated in Austin today by the filing of the preliminary papers to the transfer of the properties.

The property to be developed by the Pittsburghers consists of the new Birmingham ore plant near Rusk, Cherokee county, and is pronounced by experts to possess ore second to none in the world. The purchase includes two of the big furnaces which were abandoned several years ago when the iron ore boom in Texas burst.

The ore is easily secured, the mining implements consisting of scrapers and wheelbarrows, and there is plenty of timber near at hand for making charcoal.

MRS. DANA DEAD.

Widow of Editor of New York Sun Succumbs to Shock Caused by Fall.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(Special.)—Mrs. Charles A. Dana, widow of the well-known editor, died this evening at her home, No. 6 East Ninth street, from injuries and shock which she received several days ago when she fell down a flight of stairs.

Mrs. Dana was born in Louden county, Maryland, and was a daughter of John McDaniel and Mary Osborne.

In 1846 she was married at Brook Farm, Mass., to Charles A. Dana.

Cadet Grier Assigned to Duty.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.—(Special.)—Cadet Harry S. Grier of Pittsburgh, who was a member of this year's graduating class of West Point, has been assigned as second lieutenant to Company A, Twenty-fifth infantry. He will be located at Ft. Niobrara, Neb., where two battalions of the Twenty-fifth are stationed. Mr. Grier is given until September 11 to report at his post.

RUSSIA'S POSITION VERY UNFRIENDLY

Statement Given Out by State Department With Sanction of President Leaves Situation Caused by Jewish Petition Very Delicate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, July 1.—The position of the administration regarding the proposed transmission of the petition of the Jewish citizens of the United States to the Russian government was made very clear and positive by a statement authorized by the state department tonight. This statement was inspired by newspaper publications reflecting the attitude of the Russian government in the event of the presentation of such a petition through the medium of the United States embassy at St. Petersburg, which has been brought to the attention of the high officers of the government. It was given very careful consideration both here and at Oyster Bay before a decision was reached to make any declaration regarding the matter. The statement is as follows:

At the state department it was stated by a high official in the absence of Secretary Hay that the delay in forwarding the petition of the American citizens of the Jewish faith as to the ill-treatment of their co-religionists in Russia is solely due to the delay in furnishing the address to the state department by the petitioners. The state department would, of course, pay no heed to any statement purporting to emanate from the Russian government unless such statement were made officially in some form or other to our own government. The state department has been scrupulously careful to act only in accordance with all the requirements of official propriety, but within the limits thus laid down it will most certainly not hesitate to give expression to the deep sympathy felt not only by the administration, but by all the American people for the unfortunate Jews who have been the victims in the recent appalling massacres and outrages.

In this connection it was pointed out by another official, who disclaimed any purpose to speak in his official capacity, however, that it seemed somewhat strange, to say the least, that the Russian government should choose this particular method of making a statement to the American people at the very time when, by methods which are certainly the reverse of friendly to the United States, it has sought to make China join in breaking the plighted faith of all the powers as to the open door at Manchuria and has endeavored to bar our people from access to the Manchurian trade.

The above statement was shown to Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, tonight, but he declined to make any comment on it. Any reply to this statement must be made under direct instructions from St. Petersburg.

It is realized, both at the state department and the Russian embassy, that the situation is extremely delicate.

The Associated Press is authorized to state that the Russian government most positively denies the report that it has offered any official explanation to the American government regarding the Kishineff incident, and declares that it has never been addressed by the American government upon the subject.

The Russian government must categorically refuse to receive, from any power, any petitions, representations or communications relative to its internal affairs.

LIST OF DEAD GROWS STEADILY

Victims of Ill-Fated Mine, Crazed by Gas, Fought Against Rescue.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Hanna, Wyo., July 1.—According to the best information obtainable, 235 men out of 482 who were in the mine were killed in the explosion here yesterday. The majority of the victims are Finlanders and negroes.

Some of the survivors were driven insane and fought furiously against the rescuers. Dazed, listless survivors were found sitting on cars or lying on the floor, careless of whether they lived or died. Near the seventeenth level 20 bodies were found strewn over a pile of debris which the men had striven to surmount before they were overcome by the deadly fumes.

Some were seared and blackened by flames, but all had died crawling toward fresh air. The 11 rescuers who penetrated thus far, were too weak to bring out a body.

The startling information was received tonight that the workings below the 17th level are a mass of flames.

The efforts of those working below the surface are now confined to the work of walling up the entries. This indicates that the rescuers realize the frustlessness of further attempts to reach the entombed miners below the 17th level.

TARIFF PLANK WAS ADOPTED

Factionalism Partly Forgotten at Yesterday's Convention.

Unanimous Nominations for State Ticket and No Squabble Over Platform.

SOME FEELING UNDERNEATH

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Des Moines, Ia., July 1.—The Republican state convention, which met here today nominated the following ticket: Governor, A. B. Cummins; lieutenant governor, John Herriott; judge of supreme court, Charles A. Bishop; railroad commissioner, D. J. Palmer; superintendent of schools, F. G. Riggs. All of the above candidates, with the exception of Riggs, were renominated by acclamation. Riggs was nominated on third ballot.

While harmony prevailed during the nomination of the ticket and the adoption of the platform, reports were made which indicated that the leaders were not entirely agreed as to the details of the tariff policy. This plank was prepared by Senator Allison. Gov. Cummins in his speech accepting renomination, approved the platform in its entirety, but announced he would continue to talk to all the views expressed in his speeches within the past two years. Senators Allison and Dolliver indorsed the platform, but Congressmen Lacey and Cousins spoke in opposition to the tariff changes.

Both Claim Victory.

Both factions of the party are claiming victory tonight. Gov. Cummins and his supporters say that today's tariff plank contains, in substance, all that is found in last year's plank, while the "stand-patters" are congratulating themselves upon the elimination of the "shelter to trusts" clause, which attracted so much attention to the Iowa platforms of 1901 and 1902. The "stand-patters" secured the resolutions committee, but the Cummins men elected N. E. Kendall permanent chairman.

The convention was called to order by State Chairman Spence, who presented ex-Congressman George D. Perkins, who, in his address, touched upon the need of an economic protective policy for the nation. Kendall was then given the chair. It was then voted to make the nominations unanimous, and while a committee went in search of Gov. Cummins the platform was adopted by a unanimous vote.

There was loud cheering when Gov. Cummins appeared upon the stage. He expressed his unqualified approval of "every line and letter of the platform, but I cannot allow this occasion to pass without touching on differences of opinion in the Republican ranks as to tariff and reciprocity.

Some Rates Too High.

I believe that most of the tariff rates are too high and that they should be reduced, and I did in the platform of the warmest [illegible] my position. I believe that conditions are imminent and that all our powers of the government should be exhausted exerted to prevent and overthrow them; and I said in the platform that tariff schedules must be opposed to domestic monopoly as well as foreign control. I believe in the reciprocity which will increase the production of American farms and American workshops, and I said in the platform that reciprocity between nations is based on mutual advantage and both sides must give and take. Occasions of the differences of opinion that I have already outlined and comedians of nothing but a spirit of amity. I yet intend to exert all my power, humble and feeble as it is, to make the views I have so inadequately stated the prevailing views of the Republican party.

The convention completed its business by nominating the ticket, after which Senator Dolliver made a short speech. The platform adopted today congratulates the nation on the present era of prosperity, commends the administration of Gov. Cummins, rejoices in Iowa's leadership in national affairs, favors good roads legislation, indorses the Louisiana purchase commission, renews its pledge to the gold standard and holds forth the following tariff plank:

Equalize the Tariff.

We reiterate our faith in the historic principle of protection. Under its influence our country, foremost in the theories of navigation, has become foremost in production. It has enabled the laborer to numerically united upon good wages and has induced capital to engage in production with a reasonable hope of a fair reward. Its vindication is found in the history of its enemies and the rapidity with which our national resources have been developed and our industrial independence secured, and we hereby renew our pledge to maintain it.

Tariff rates enacted to carry this policy into effect should be just, fair and impartial, equally opposed to foreign monopoly and to monopoly of home markets, equally opposed to sectional discrimination and sectional favoritism, and must from time to time be changed to meet the varying conditions incident to the progress of our industries and their changing relations to our foreign and domestic commerce. Duties that are too low should be increased and duties that are too high should be reduced.

We favored the policy of reciprocity, and the natural complement of protection. Both properly between nations is based on mutual advantage. Instead of lessening our home markets, reciprocity builds up domestic industry and trade and secures our own markets for our natural, enterprise builds up foreign trade and finds an outlet for our surplus.

Roosevelt Indorsed.

We approve the treaty with Cuba, recently ratified, as conferring substantial benefits on both countries, and urge that the remaining steps necessary to make it effective be promptly taken. We believe that the large concessions commonly called [illegible] should be so guarded and supervised, both in their execution and operation, that their evil consequences may be avoided and their good preserved. It is better to the interests that are affected, industrial independence and the safety of the [illegible] both domestic and commercial.

We indorse the administration of President Roosevelt, and point with pride to the fact that under his wise and patriotic guidance the credit of the nation has been advanced to the highest point in its history, the public debt has been reduced more than $40,000,000 during the past year, the revenues have been sufficient to meet the needs of the government, and the surplus has been used to purchase bonds for the sinking fund.

Garber Opens Headquarters, but Says Chief Is Not a Candidate.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

When questioned tonight about Johnson's plans, Garber said that the Cleveland man will probably not accept a place on the ticket.

"All this talk about Mayor Johnson's running for governor or auditor and, for that matter, for senator," he said, "is unauthorized. It is my personal opinion that he will not be a candidate for any office this fall. He thinks he can accomplish more by being a free lance.

"My own belief is that John L. Simmon of Springfield will be the convention's unanimous choice for governor. It is a little early, however, to make definite predictions."

J., was awarded the contract for printing the money-order blanks for the postoffice department for a period of four years. His bid for this work was $370,000, which was $41,000 lower than that of the Wynkoop-Hallenbeck-Crawford Company of New York, the only other bidder, and the firm that has had the contract for the past 16 years.

It was for holding up the bid of Herman, who is a former employe of the New York concern that Superintendent James T. Metcalf of the money order system was dismissed from the service recently, by Postmaster General Payne.

The hearing today before First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne was granted upon the application of the Typothetae of America, the association of master printers. The association was represented by John B. Eggers, New York; Wilson H. Lee, New Haven, Conn., and Col. Henry W. Sackett, New York. Co. Sackett, the spokesman, made three chief points in his statement.

Call Him Sub-Contractor.

That it was a matter of bad morals to award a contract to an employe, who had just left his employer, and had the knowledge of his business secrets, that it would be against a United States statute to award the contract to him, because as he was to provide money for establishing the business for carrying out the contract, he is only a sub-contractor; and that Mr. Herman would not be able to carry out the contract satisfactorily for the price named.

Later in the day Herman was heard in his own behalf. He showed that he had $20,000 to his credit in a New York bank, and that manufacturers of printing supplies had agreed to furnish him with the necessary equipment. He offered to furnish a bond of upwards of $50,000. Upon this showing the contract was awarded to him.

Postmaster General Payne leaves tomorrow for a few days' recreation in the Catskills. He said today that there were no developments in the postoffice investigation.

The Washington representative of Perry Heath's paper is authority for the statement that Mr. Heath has no intention of resigning his position as secretary of the Republican national committee.

Feels He's Exonerated.

He said that Mr. Heath saw no reason for his resignation in the connection of his name with irregularities in the postoffice department, charges that were previously made and investigated, resulting in a report that exonerated him from any blame.

August W. Machen, Diller B. Groff and Samuel A. Groff were today arraigned on additional indictments, entered pleas of not guilty and their bail was not increased.

President Roosevelt has issued orders that hereafter rural routes are to be established only where the population warrants them, and are not to be granted as favors to congressmen or to be used as political rewards.

Exactly 896 rural delivery routes were put in operation today, the first since the establishments were suspended in view of the deficit on that account for the fiscal year just closed. They bring the total number of routes in operation to approximately 18,000.

Additional clerks and promotions become effective today in practically all of the first and second-class postoffices in the country. The additional clerks allowed aggregate approximately 2,000, and the promotions of clerks already employed make an aggregate increase of over $1,000,000 in the salary rolls.

Postmaster General Payne today issued an order abolishing the position of physician in postoffices at the close of business June 30, 1903. This order wipes out a small list of officials whose employment without specific authority of law has caused wide discussion in connection with the postoffice investigation. Some at least, of these offices paid $1,200 a year.

SECOND VICTIM TO DIE.

Mrs. Alaneda Mitchell, Hurt in Heinz Elevator Accident, Passes Away.

Mrs. Alaneda Mitchell of Paris, Ky., one of the visitors to the Heinz pickle works in Allegheny killed by the falling of the elevator Monday, died at the Allegheny General hospital yesterday afternoon. This is the second death due to the accident. The remains were sent last evening to her home.

This death, and that of Otis R. Thompson, another of the victims, have brought the whole matter under the coroner's jurisdiction, and Coroner McGeary said yesterday that he proposes to make a most searching investigation. The remedy for such accidents lies, he thinks, in an elevator inspector employed by the county commissioners.

HURT IN A RUNAWAY.

Traction car bearing the unlucky number 13 ran away yesterday afternoon while going down the steep Knoxville grade between Orchard place and Charles street, and a number of its passengers were severely injured.

The car got beyond the control of Motorman Henry Farnell and when it reached Charles street it jumped the track, shot down Beltzhoover avenue for some distance and came to an abrupt stop.

The passengers were all thrown into a heap in the front end of the car. Miss Daisy Vitchestain, sister of Police Magistrate Vitchestain, fell under the other passengers and was rescued as she picked up. John Callender of Beltzhoover avenue was badly bruised about the body. He and Miss Vitchestain were removed to their homes.

Fatally Hurt by Elevator.

MARIETTA, O., July 1.—(Special.)—Joseph Koon, aged 22, single, fell four stories in an elevator shaft of the Leidecker building and was fatally injured. The elevator was used to haul brick and Koon pulled the rope which precipitated him down the shaft.

Ship Carpenters Strike.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 1.—Six hundred caulkers, shipwrights and joiners went on strike today for a reduction in the working hours and increase in wages. The men ask for a nine-hour day at $3. The New York Shipbuilding Company, is not affected by the strike.

TORTURING A SICK WOMAN; PHONOGRAPH PLAYED ON

The annoyance of his wife from the playing of a phonograph in a neighbor's house caused George A. Miller of the East End a lot of trouble yesterday in having the inhuman nuisance abated. The neighbor refused to stop the machine. Miller appealed to his lawyer, who referred him to the police department. Inspector Gray of No. 6 said the police could not interfere. Finally Magistrate E. C. Negley sent a letter to the neighbor asking him to stop the machine.

CITIZENS PROTEST

Cape May People Object to Stopping of Projects of Pittsburgh Capitalists.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 1.—(Special.)—A large and enthusiastic meeting, in which there were 2,000 resident and non-resident property owners, was held on the public pavilion opposite the Stockton hotel this evening to protest against the legal proceedings recently brought to stop the city from making improvements in conjunction with the owners of East Cape May, who are Pittsburgh capitalists and who have already expended $2,000,000 on the property.

Mayor Millet called the assembly to order and Dr. James Macray was chosen chairman and J. Clifford Wilson of Philadelphia secretary. The speakers were William D. Neilson, Philadelphia; ex-Councilman Walter S. Ware, Cape May; Charles H. Edmunds, Philadelphia; ex-Senator William Flinn, Pittsburgh; Francis B. Sinnott, Philadelphia, and ex-Senator John S. Weller, Pittsburgh.

Strong resolutions were adopted congratulating the authorities upon their progressive move and condemning those who were trying to throttle the raising of the money for the improvements.

they shall be so regulated and controlled as to prevent monopoly and promote competition, and in the fullest measure subserve and advance the public good.

The patriotic and resolute course of the president of the United States in his recommendations to congress upon this subject, and upon the related subject of the further regulation of interstate commerce, commands our confidence and admiration, and recent legislation of congress in harmony with his recommendations meets our hearty approval.

When Senator Dolliver closed his speech the one remarkable demonstration of the convention. Responding to repeated calls of "Allison," the venerable senator ascended the stage. Delegates and spectators alike arose and repeatedly cheered him. He said:

I have listened, as you all have, to the platform reported by your committee on resolutions, which embodies the principles and policies of the Republican party from the day of its birth down to the present moment, and that party, when it embodies these great principles and policies, will have no longer any reason for its existence. It must be expected that if a few of us gathered here today differ upon the details respecting the application of these policies, when we come into the assemblage of representative men of all the states, having each diversification of interests, conflicting more or less and more or less cleaning, we shall see differences, but when we come to apply these policies we will apply them intelligently, taking care of the just rights of our laws and also the just rights of all those with whom we are associated in dealing with these great questions.

HE DRANK IODINE.

An Allegheny Man Has Narrow Escape From Death at Canton.

CANTON, O., July 1.—(Special.)—William Neelan of Allegheny swallowed a quantity of iodine Wednesday noon in South Cleveland avenue. He called at the home of Benjamin F. Mrs. Reynolds appeared at the door shortly after and saw the man lying prostrate on the ground.

Examination proved that he had taken a dose of iodine. Relatives in Allegheny have been notified. The poison which he took is not severe and he will probably recover.

BURNS AGAIN IS HERO OF THE DAY

Handsome Monument Is Unveiled to Gettysburg's Gray-Haired Patriot.

STIRRING WORDS TO VETERANS

Gov. Pennypacker and Gen. Hulidekoper Laud Pennsylvania's Patriotism at Fortieth Anniversary of the Great Battle.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

GETTYSBURG, July 1.—The fortieth anniversary celebration of the battle of Gettysburg began here today, and will continue until Friday. During the celebration more than 300 G. A. R. posts in Pennsylvania and adjoining states, numerous regiments of the National Guard and United States cavalry and artillery will participate in the exercises. The ceremonies for the three days will take place on the first, second and third days' battle grounds.

Today the monument erected by the state in honor of John Burns, who entered the service on July 1, 1863, at the age of 70 years, as a sharpshooter, was dedicated at McPherson's Ridge, under the direction of the Pennsylvania commission on monuments at Gettysburg. The Rev. Dr. E. J. Wolf, president of the general synod of the Lutheran church, delivered the dedicatory address, and Gov. Pennypacker accepted the monument for the state. The governor in his address said:

We have come together upon one of the battlefields of the most momentous in its consequence of all the American wars. We meet upon the field where the issues of that war were determined and with them the fate of a great nation, and it may be the future of the peoples of the world for the ages yet to come. It is a field made famous by the sword of George G. Meade and consecrated by the words of the modern psalmist, Abraham Lincoln.

Will Stand for Ages.

Throughout the centuries yet to be Americans will come to Gettysburg to gather inspiration for the struggles of life as the Greek went to Marathon, as the Briton goes to Waterloo, as the followers of the prophet hurried to Mecca. Upon the anniversary of that tremendous contest, surrounded on all sides by the memorials erected by a grateful people, with all things to suggest the more than 40,000 men who were here stricken, we have come to dedicate a monument to a man who held no rank, who wore no uniform, and who belonged to no army.

It is a most impressive occasion. It is an event of no ordinary significance. It means that the state rests upon the citizen and his character. This quiet Pennsylvania town, typical in its repose as well as in its strength, and in its everlasting fame of the great commonwealth, where in it was fostered, had sent forth its young men to do battle in the cause of their country and they were carrying their muskets in the army of the Potomac.

John Burns the Hero.

When invasion was threatened and the storms of war began to roll near, it contributed a company to a regiment, which, by a strange fatality, was sent here and was the first force to encounter on this ground the Army of Lee, and when the cannon roared and the muskets rattled through its streets, the old constable of the town, a hero of two wars and a soldier at home with the frosts of over 70 years, plunged into the fray and was thrice wounded.

It was fitting that Pennsylvania should arise to greet the living heroes. It was meet that at every vital point in this most fateful of contests fought upon her soil, her sons should be to the fore. Happy is that land and much less the state or the people in which these grave dangers threaten, can call upon young and old, soldier and citizen, to come to the rescue. When such courage and such virtue characterize its people it need fear neither aggression from abroad nor dissensions at home.

Miss Virginia O'Neal of this place unveiled the statue. An address was also delivered by Gen. H. S. Hudekoper, who gave a detailed story of the enlistment of John Burns and the first day's fighting. Tomorrow's exercises will take place in the National cemetery near the spot where Abraham Lincoln delivered his immortal oration.

Coroner Appoints Two Deputies.

S. Wesley Church and Harry Lowe, both of the South Side, were appointed by Coroner McGeary yesterday as deputies, to go on duty at once. One takes the position recently made vacant by the resignation of Charles Bender and the other the place recently made by the county commissioners.

MAYORS NOT MEMBERS OF PRISON BOARDS

Committee Reports Ripper Act Abolished This Duty of City Heads.

President Judge Robert S. Frazer, Judge James R. Macfarlane and County Commissioner James Evans, a special committee appointed to determine whether or not the heads of the two cities were entitled to serve as members of the prison board, reported yesterday, declaring that the mayors are not entitled to act as members. This leaves the board with only 11 members.

The committee said that the act of 1883 made the mayors members of the board, but the act of March, 1901, creating the office of city recorder, changed this, abolishing the office of mayor, and prescribing the duties pertaining to the office of city recorder. The act of April 25, 1903, did not enlarge the duties of the mayor, but simply changed the title from city recorder to that of mayor, specifically stating that no change was to be made in the powers or duties of the office.

This report does not change the political aspect of the board. Even with the mayors serving the Citizens party would have but six members, one short of a majority.

MAYOR HAYS NEEDS AN ORATOR FOR FOURTH

Senator Hanna Sends Word He Will Be Unable to Come. Program Is Completed.

The efforts of Mayor Hays and Director Blaclow to get Senator Marcus A. Hanna as the chief attraction for the Fourth of July have failed. Word was received yesterday from Senator Hanna at Cleveland, O., that he had already made arrangements to spend the Fourth with his family at a resort out of Cleveland and that it would be impossible to change his plans upon so short a notice.

Mayor Hays and Director Blaclow did not send an invitation to Senator Hanna until last Saturday, as published the following day in The Gazette, after the Sons of the American Revolution had failed to get a speaker. The mayor and director are now on a hunt for another orator.

The program for the celebration has been practically completed. The celebration will be opened with the pistoning salute of 45 guns, fired by Battery B, and simultaneously all bands will continue throughout the day. In the afternoon the sports in the Schenley park oval will be the principal attraction and the fireworks will attract thousands to the park at night. The total of subscriptions to the fund for the celebration is $8,105.81.

The subscriptions yesterday were as follows: First National bank, $250; Semple & Parker, $10; Pittsburgh Golf club, $200; George W. Elkins, $25; J. L. Buchanan, $25; George Dimling, $10; Hedart Trabert, $25; Ernest P. Rausch, $25.

The subscriptions to the Allegheny fund yesterday reached $3,014.50, the largest sum ever contributed on the North Side.

Second Day of the July Clean-Up.

What of the first day? If you were here you know without our telling you. For those who were not present, although it may be uninteresting, we desire to say that it was the biggest thing in the way of the first day's clearance this store ever went through—not only a clearance day, but on any other big special sale day.

We are very much afraid that in the second floor departments of ready-made garments there were very many who despaired of being waited upon and left. The overcrowding was great. To those who could not tarry for a salesperson we desire to say that the unforeseen circumstances of great crowding cannot be measured by any system of foresight. Salespeople were pressed into service from departments that were not so active, and yet that did not help the matter very much.

The great reductions for which we are selling all sorts of Summer goods should induce you to try again today. We are quite sure we can wait upon you expeditiously upon this the second day of our clearance. Our best efforts were put forth yesterday to meet all demands upon our overtaxed salespeople, and if we fell short we are entitled to the exception as is the case in all general rules. We tried hard enough to wait upon everyone present.

Hints of today.

Clearing Metal Bedsteads.

We have no argument to use regarding the buying of these Bedsteads other than the considerate reductions. If you do not need a brass or an iron bed you will not be interested; but if you have in mind the buying of either kind it is quite likely you will not have a better opportunity to save some money than in the offer quoted below.

Iron Beds, white enamel, brass trimmed, small size—at $8 from $11, at $9 from $13, at $10 from $12 and $14.

Full size Iron Beds at $4 from $6, at $12 from $18, at $21 from $27.

Brass Beds, 3 feet 6 inches wide, at $27 from $32, at $28 from $36, at $33 from $39, at $40 from $48, at $58 from $64.

LLOWED TO FUSE WITH ANY PARTY

The Democrats Will Today Put Through Same Fusion Resolution Citizens Adopted.

PLANS MADE AT CAUCUS

Will Be No Chance for Debate in the Convention as the Combine Has Taken Precaution to Choke Off All Discussion.

Not to be outdone by the Citizens the Democratic convention will today authorize the appointment of a committee of five "for the purpose of conferring with other parties with a view to placing in nomination worthy and capable candidates for the offices to be filled at the fall election." The resolution is exactly the same as the one adopted by the Citizens.

At least 60 of the 96 delegates to the county convention, which is to be convened in common council chamber at 11 o'clock this morning, held a caucus last evening at the Monongahela house. All the plans for the meeting today were outlined. Every man who is to make a motion or a speech knows just what he is to do, here is no opportunity for a hitch in the arrangements, and nothing can be done which has not received the O. K. of the combine. There will be no embarrassing resolutions read or debated on the floor of the convention. They will all be referred to a committee that will promptly pigeon-hole them.

Brennen in the Chair.

W. J. Brennen presided at the caucus, and C. F. Anderson and J. W. Sloan were the secretaries. There were about 60 delegates present, or 11 more than a majority of the convention. It is claimed that all of the absentees will go along with the caucus plans. George S. Fleming and County Commissioner James A. Clark, the other members of the combine, holed Brennen to round out the program for today. It was decided that County Chairman T. B. Aleyon will call the convention to order. James A. Clark will be elected temporary and permanent chairman, and these secretaries will be chosen: William Turner, Wilkinsburg; John J. Tobin, Richard Horan, J. W. Sloan, C. F. Anderson, Bert Baughman, Pittsburgh; Robert Beck, Allegheny, and P. H. McGuire, Homestead.

B. J. H. Carnegie will nominate Cornelius Casey for jury commissioner. He will be nominated by acclamation. Henry Meyer of Allegheny will make the speech naming Thomas B. Alcorn for county chairman. He will also be chosen without a roll call.

One of the first things done will be the appointment of a committee of five on resolutions. The members will be C. T. Abbot of McKeesport, James McKay, Allegheny; Peter Burke, South Fayette township; W. M. McNeal of Hampton township, and D. J. Boyle of Pittsburgh. All resolutions will be referred to the committee without debate. About the only one that will come back to the convention will be the one providing for a fusion committee to be named by the chairman of the convention. It will provide that he will be a member of it. The caucus decided that their resolution should be exactly the same as the one adopted by the Citizens county committee. Under its terms the Democrats are not confined to seeking fusion relations with any one party.

Chairman Clark will no doubt appoint the committee very soon after the convention adjourns, if not while the body is in session. It will probably be composed of S. Fleming, James A. Clark, Henry Meyer and Charles B. Payne.

May Not Touch Libel Law.

Commissioner Clark said last night that it is quite probable that resolutions denouncing the Grady-Salus libel bill will not be presented to the convention by the committee on resolutions. It is the plan of the managers to keep the man with a resolution muzzled. They do not want anything said about what the Democrats should demand in the way of nominations on the fusion committee and believe that the easiest way to prevent discussion on this subject is to choke off all resolutions. There will be a promise made that the Democratic state convention will nominate a ticket and build a platform satisfactory to all of the independents and Democrats.

The convention will elect W. J. Brennen and George S. Fleming members of the state committee. Chairman Alcorn holds membership by virtue of his office.

Mr. Clark said last night that there had been reports that the delegates to the state convention were not all friends of Col. J. M. Guffey. "This statement is untrue," said he, "they are all friends of Col. Guffey, and every delegate will go to the Harrisburg state convention ready and willing to follow his leadership."

SAYS ACHESON IS LIKE SAMSON

Lieut.-Gov. W. W. Brown Thinks Congressman May Be Buried in the Wreckage.

LOOKS INTO THE FUTURE

Predicts Trouble for Washington Man if He Refuses to Abide by Decision of the Republican State Chairman.

"Like Samson of old, if he tries to pull down the pillars, he may find himself buried in the wreckage."

Lieut. Gov. W. M. Brown yesterday said that the above might be the political fate of Congressman E. F. Acheson if he insists upon having his own way in the adoption of nominating a congressman in the Twenty-fourth congressional district. He was discussing the Republican conference to be held in this city on July 11. At that time conferees from Washington, Beaver and Lawrence will endeavor to agree on a plan of nominating a congressman. There has been one meeting at which Washington and Lawrence favored a popular vote and Beaver held out for the conferee system. The postponement until Saturday a week is to allow the Beaver men an opportunity to consult with Senator Quay.

"I am informed that Quay will be back in civilization next Monday," said Lieut.-Gov. Brown. "I understand that his Beaver friends want to consult his wishes and believe that they will do what he wants. While Lawrence will vote with Washington for the popular vote, I am of the opinion that the system will not be adopted. The Dauphin courts have ruled that all counties in a congressional district must agree before a method of nominating can be adopted.

"If the counties do not reach a decision by the first of August the state chairman is authorized to provide a method. Yes, I understand that Congressman Acheson has said that he would not recognize the right of the state chairman to interfere. It must be remembered that the state convention that adopted the new rule is the highest authority of the party. If one man sets himself up in opposition to this high authority, like Samson of old, he may be pulling down the pillars of the temple but he will be buried in the wreckage."

COUNTY LETS CONTRACT.

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. to Furnish New Dynamos.

The county commissioners yesterday awarded a contract to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for several new dynamos, to furnish needed light to the court house and morgue. This company was the lowest bidder, the price being $8,250, it agreeing to have the machinery in running order not later than November 1.

The contract for rewiring the building was awarded to John L. Sturn, the lowest bidder, for $1,785.

Percy Blackburn Under Arrest.

A former Pittsburgh policeman, Percy Blackburn, alias John Scott, wanted for shooting two men in Johnstown, was arrested at the Union station yesterday afternoon by Detective Albert H. Swinehart of the Pennsylvania railroad. Blackburn was taken back to Johnstown. The shooting is alleged to have been done while Blackburn was passing through that city on a westbound train. The victims are Frank Leigh and John F. Kennery. Neither is seriously wounded. When questioned Blackburn said he had become drunk while en route to Pittsburgh to attend the funeral of his mother.

Youthful Highwaymen Arrested.

John Freeman, 13 years old, of Cornet street, and John Mullin, also 13 years old, of No. 11 Maurice street, are charged with highway robbery. Miss Nettie Kubisak of No. 18 Wakefield street was walking down Forbes street, near Meyran avenue, yesterday afternoon, when the boys snatched her chatelaine bag and ran. Policeman George Simpkinss caught Freeman and Mullin.

BIG PETITION SEEKS TRACTION SERVICE

Paper Signed by 30,000 Patrons Will Be Presented to Pittsburgh Railways Co.

In addition to the various branches of the Strap-hangers league that are being established in the towns throughout the lower Monongahela and Turtle Creek valleys, another means has been undertaken in an effort to have the Pittsburgh Railways Company awaken to the necessity of providing more cars on their lines in those places. Petition after petition from the various workshops in Braddock, Homestead and Duquesne have been sent the company praying for better service, but the petitions were never considered.

Now it is proposed sending the company a petition bearing the names of 30,000 residents in the valley who use the traction cars and, want better service. The petition was originated by William Mason, manager of the Prudential Insurance Company's office at Duquesne.

Mr. Mason thinks that if the heads of the company were familiar with the exact situation in the Monongahela valley they would bring about much needed reforms and place more cars in service on the roads. The petition to be presented to the company with the thousands of names attached to it is expected to have the desired effect.

Annual Patriotic Service.

The Epworth League of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, will hold its annual patriotic service tomorrow evening. There will be congregational singing of patriotic songs and hymns, recitations, solos, and an address by the Rev. Dr. J. T. McCrory of Pittsburgh.

Capt. George C. Kelly's request to be relieved of the duties of chief clerk in the adjutant general's office at Harrisburg on account of increasing years has been granted. Capt. Kelly will hereafter be an ordinary clerk. But his promotion backward at his own request will not deprive him of the credit of more than 30 years of efficient service as chief clerk, nor of the honorable record previously made on many bloody battlefields. Capt. Kelly's list of friends and acquaintances covers the state, and he will always be remembered as a courteous official and kindly gentleman.

It is worth noting that the promotion of William E. Corey is not only a deserved compliment to a young Pittsburgher of extraordinary ability, but is also a recognition by the controlling powers of the United States Steel Corporation of the superiority of Pittsburgh methods in the manufacture of iron and steel. This was recognized first in making Mr. Schwab president, and now in advancing Mr. Corey to the performance of the active duties of the office. The controlling powers of the United States Steel Corporation, however, but follow the earlier discovery of the English ironmasters of the fact that the Pittsburgh practice is the best in the world.

While technical matters prevent the actual union of the Congregationalist, Methodist Protestant and United Brethren churches, it has been decided they shall affiliate in a manner that amounts almost to union. Their slight doctrinal differences will be harmonized and the supreme body of the three will be the annual council. Doubtless this arrangement will be an advantage, and it will probably lead in time to the actual union that is now prevented by the ownership of individual colleges and other institutions. It is a gratifying sign of the times that the churches are finding more common ground in broad Christian principles and less ground for controversies in creed differences.

Complaint has been lodged with the state department that Presbyterians in the Kongo Free State are denied the religious liberty guaranteed them by the Berlin treaty. Complaints have become numerous in regard to the administration of the Kongo Free State, and the original scheme of an independent state devoted to a career of purely industrial development under an European protectorate appears to be a failure. Many reports of cruel treatment of natives have from time to time reached Europe, and explanations made are vague and unsatisfactory. There does not appear to be in the administration the sense of responsibility for the well-being of the people that exists in good colonial administration. Commercial motives predominate and native labor is exploited with a view to commercial results rather than to their own industrial advancement. The government is a sort of diplomatic preserve, exempt from the political responsibilities which in other colonial dominions put a check upon administrators.

Considerable criticism has been directed to the miners' union on account of its opposition prohibiting the employment of children under 16 years of age. The criticism is pertinent in as far as the law was suggested by the anthracite miners and because all laws should be obeyed as long as they are in force. But it is not discreditable to officials of the miners' organization to declare the law unjust. There are many widows in the mining regions in poor circumstances who might get along moderately well with their boys of less than 16 years employed, and the law should make exceptions in favor of such cases, or it should provide support for the destitute families without degrading them to pauperism. The general idea of having children attend school and of preventing wholesale child labor is entirely commendable. A law, however, that inflicts hardship upon worthy families goes too far. Like the post which was being aligned by the late excellent Mr. Holman, and which he adjudged "exactly plumb, and a-leetle-over," the good lawmakers have slightly overshot their mark.

President Loubet of France has taken action which is similar to that which the Russian government has announced in regard to American petitions concerning the persecution of the Jews in Russia. A deputation of British Catholics desired to present to him while in London a petition regarding "the persecution of the Catholic religion in France," but President Loubet declined to receive the deputation. The American remonstrance accepted by President Roosevelt for transmission to the Russian government is a temperately worded document, which should have some effect if intervention of any kind between the citizens of a country and the government of another country can ever be productive of good. Immediately and directly it cannot be, as every government resents such interference upon any grounds, but nevertheless the opinion of the civilized world cannot be ignored, and as expressive of this opinion such remonstrance must have some effect even although informally refused acceptance. In the face of the world-wide censure evoked by the Kishineff massacre the Russian officials' attitude is now deprecating and apologetic.

As to Compensation.

There is an apparent inability on the part of a few to grasp the real issue in the proposed exchange of the Pennsylvania railroad franchise in Liberty avenue for a franchise in Duquesne way. That is, they are either unable to divest themselves of a notion that the city retains some sort of property right in the Liberty avenue franchise, or they do not appreciate the inestimable advantage to the city of having the surface tracks removed from Liberty avenue. They argue that because the Duquesne way elevated road will better accommodate the railroad company's business than the present tracks the company should be compelled to pay a round sum in cash, independently of the relinquishment of the rights in Liberty avenue which are of so much greater value to the city.

This bizarre view is illustrated in the reported reply of Councilman Stevenson to Attorney Patterson when the latter declared the Pennsylvania railroad would abandon the elevated project if the proposed compensation clause was inserted in the pending ordinance. Mr. Stevenson is reported to have said he would not object to such abandonment as that would compel the railroad to establish a new freight terminal above Eleventh street.

Suppose the Pennsylvania railroad should be compelled to establish a new freight depot above Eleventh street to accommodate its traffic, does any one suppose it would relinquish its rights in Liberty avenue on that account? On the contrary, such a situation would fasten the obstruction permanently upon that thoroughfare, or compel the city to secure its removal by purchase. The price that would have to be paid would, no doubt, exceed that proposed by Mr. Stevenson as a proper compensation to be paid the city for the Duquesne way line. That is precisely why The Gazette has advocated acceptance of the proposed exchange; to prevent the possibility of leaving the obstruction permanently in Liberty avenue.

The data printed in these columns on Monday should make it apparent to the dullest comprehension that the Pennsylvania railroad is fully alive to the value of the concession it obtained 50 years ago, and that it will never relinquish it until it gets value in return. It happens at this moment that an elevated structure along Duquesne way would be more valuable to the railroad than are its tracks in Liberty avenue. At the same time Liberty avenue free of tracks would be vastly more valuable to the city than Duquesne way as it is. In fact, Duquesne way property would appreciate in value by the change. For these reasons the railroad company offers to make an exchange for the mutual advantage of itself and the city of Pittsburgh. It is a business and not a sentimental proposition. On the same business basis the company cannot be expected to trade to its disadvantage; that is, to pay for the Duquesne way franchise a sum that would acquire for it a freight terminal near Union depot without the necessity of surrendering its valuable rights in Liberty avenue. The mistake made in granting the franchise in Liberty avenue 50 years ago cannot be rectified now. The danger is that in asking more of the railroad company than it will concede another and even more inexcusable blunder will be made that will perpetuate the evil. Councils 50 years ago could not foresee present conditions in Pittsburgh, but councils today, with personal knowledge of the development of 15 years last past, cannot be excused for failure to appreciate the urgent needs of the city.

The Iowa Idea.

Senator Allison accepted an onerous responsibility in undertaking to prepare the tariff plank of the Iowa Republican convention, but the convention voted wisely in confiding that delicate matter to such a wise and experienced statesman. He is the chairman of the appropriations committee of the senate, and holds second place in the finance committee, which passes upon all tariff and financial measures. He is prominent in the senatorial group which wields a formative influence over all tariff and financial legislation. Personally, he is a man of such habitual caution that the late Senator Ingalls once satirized him as "the pussy cat of politics, who could walk from San Francisco to New York on the keys of a piano and never strike a note." Coming from a statesman of such temperamental prudence, the Iowa plank will be regarded as striking a loud note and one which will resound through national politics.

Last year the Iowa convention, after some controversy, disposed of the subject by reaffirming the previous deliverance on the tariff, as follows: "We favor any modification of the tariff schedules that may be required the prevent their affording shelter to monopoly." The idea of tariff tinkering as a blow at "trusts" has elicited remonstrance from the Republican party all over the country, and this Iowa idea was regarded as having been so completely extinguished that it had been forsaken even by its originators. But an Iowa idea of tariff revision and reciprocity makes a conspicuous appearance in the platform, and the fact that Senator Allison himself assumes the responsibility of promulgating it gives it an importance it did not possess before. Faith in the historic principle of protection is reiterated, but it is declared that tariff rates "must from time to time be changed to meet the varying conditions incident to the progress of our industries," and that "duties that are too low should be increased, and duties that are too high should be reduced." Then the platform proceeds to give an emphatic indorsement to the policy of reciprocity which has been practically repudiated by the senate with the cordial approval of the American Protective Tariff league. The Cuban reciprocity treaty is indorsed, and its prompt consummation is urged. Altogether the tariff plank can only be construed as deliberately antagonizing the stand-pat policy represented by Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, who is at the head of the finance committee. It will be remembered that the stand-pat policy was indorsed by the Pennsylvania Republican convention, whose platform deprecated "any suggestion of a general revision at the present time of the existing tariff law enacted in 1897."

The "trust" plank no longer connects that subject with tariff revision, and its prudent language indicates an advance in the education of public opinion on the subject. It is admitted that the trusts "in many instances are efficient industrial instruments and the natural outcome of an inevitable process of economic evolution." President Roosevelt's policy of regulation and supervision is cordially indorsed and his course is commended.

We confess to some surprise at the outspokenness of the platform in regard to tariff revision and reciprocity, as there were indications that popular excitement over the subject had been greatly allayed since Speaker Henderson's memorable resignation brought the Iowa idea to general notice. Reference of the matter to so circumspect and cautious a leader as Senator Allison suggested a non-committal conservative utterance. The plank actually adopted must be accepted as proof that there is a strong tariff revision sentiment in Iowa to which the state party managers have to respond.

The New York Example.

The Dispatch keeps citing the franchise charges imposed upon the Pennsylvania railroad by the city of New York as an example for Pittsburgh. It is a fine example, and New York is able to make such good bargains because such matters are in the hands of a public agency representing the community as a whole and not ward interests. The chief officers of the city government, associated as a board of estimates, negotiate all such matters, and the city council may approve or reject the agreement reached, but cannot alter its terms. A bill creating such a board in cities of the second class was introduced at the last session of the legislature and was passed by the senate, but we do not remember that the Dispatch gave it any support.

In the case of the franchise charges cited by the Dispatch, the agreement was denounced as inadequate and incomplete by excited councilmen, but under the New York law councilmanic manipulation of such matters is impossible. All that the council had power to do was to call for further information, and they got it on every point setting forth sound public grounds for the decision reached, and in the end the pressure of public opinion in the face of a responsibility which could not be dodged compelled ratification. If we had the New York plan, Mayor Hays would ventilate his ideas as a member of the board and would have to go on record as to the exact terms he thought right, with his reasons in detail. The matter would be kept upon the plane of business consideration instead of becoming a bone of faction contention, complicated with ward politics.

In the New York case the only matter to be considered was the value of entirely new franchises applied for by the company. There was no old franchise in the possession of the company. To make the situation parallel with the present one in Pittsburgh we should have to suppose that the railroad company already held a perpetual franchise for the use of lower Broadway down to the Battery and that the pending question was the removal of the railroad tracks from Broadway and the relinquishment of the franchise in consideration of the grant of rights of way for an elevated road to the Battery by another route through a warehouse district which would profit by the railway connections. In such a case we do not doubt that the New York board of estimates would jump at the opportunity without a cent of extra compensation and be delighted to get the chance. The opportunity would be looked at from a business point of view and not as a chance for grand stand play in the game of politics. The business would have been settled and the improvement would now be assured if such matters were handled in Pittsburgh as they are in New York.

Plenty of Data at Hand.

We print, in another page, a communication from a well-known professional man of this city on the filtration subject. He agrees to all that Dr. Holland said the day before and commends the opinion that the appointment of a third commission to "investigate" would be a pitiable farce. The findings of the joint commission of the chamber of commerce, Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, Allegheny County Medical association and Iron City Microscopical society, to which our correspondent refers, were identically in line with the later conclusions of the municipal commission. The joint commission published its report early in 1894, nearly two and a half years before the appointment of the city commission, and the latter carried the investigation forward for nearly three years longer. There is nothing left for a new commission to find out, so the only possible purpose of such a body would be to bring in a preconceived recommendation for an alum water filter.

The letters which are coming to The Gazette in consequence of the reopening of the subject are ample evidence of an educated public opinion. The whole matter of typhoid infection and of filtration of water by various devices is understood by the people at large. It was so well understood three years ago that sand filtration was voted for, and an issue of bonds authorized by an overwhelming majority. In view of that vote there should have been no delay in carrying out the verdict.

It is pertinent at this time to remind the city authorities and the public that on December 14, 1896, the contract of the Monongahela Water Company with the city will expire. At that time the way will be open for extending the city water service to the South Side. With prompt action the filtration system can be installed by that time. The city ought to be active along two lines during the intervening period. First, constructing the authorized filtration plant, and, second, preparing to take over as a municipal function the supply of water to the South Side wards.

Preparations for a Holiday.

There is a grim but practical significance in some of this year's preparations for the celebration of the Fourth of July, says the New York Tribune. In existing circumstances they are desirable preparations. From the common point of view they are necessary. But they furnish one of the most caustic of comments upon our vaunted civilization and humanitarianism that could possibly be conceived, and might well move some visitor from Mars to wonder what sort of people these Americans are who conduct their national festival in a manner demanding such preparations. For it is announced that specially large supplies of anti-toxin will be on tap, and other remedies for tetanus and blood poisoning; there will be no holiday for ambulance drivers and surgeons and the staffs of hospitals; and the full force of the fire department will be on active duty all day long. These are some of the inspiring concomitants of the great American nation's jubilee over the anniversary of its independence.

The American Farmer.

When the American farmer rises early in the morning it is to look over broad and fertile acres that are his own. When he goes forth it is to fields that no human being can lawfully step upon without his consent. When he gathers and garners the harvest he stores up eight, in a vast majority of cases, no greedy and rapacious landlord can take from him. It is all his. The proceeds of it are to clothe and feed him and his family and educate his children; to be the support of his old age and the heritage of his posterity. Looked at from every point of view, it is doubtful if there is another human being under the heavens who has more cause for carrying a light heart and a contented mind, for regarding the past with satisfaction and the future with hope than the American farmer.—Kansas City Journal.

THE MAN WHO TOLD YOU SO.

It was awfully sad! It was really too bad!
I'm sorry as I can be,
But it need not have happened at all if they had
Just quietly listened to me.
For I knew very well and was willing to tell,
And I told them so once or twice,
But they knew that the pen was right under the spell
And they would not take my advice.

It is strange people slight good advice when they might
As well know just what they should do,
For I flatter myself that I'm most always right
And am so in a thing or two.
With good reason I pride myself as a true guide;
My discrimination is nice.
No, it isn't a thing that it's well to deride,
My disinterested advice.

But in spite of the fact that I'm willing to act
As philosopher, guide and friend,
And to help every one with my knowledge and tact
So far as that is willing they lend,
But the just as well they should go on their own way
And pay for that rashness the price.
They'll be sorry that they did not take it some day.
I'll remind them then of my advice.

ERASMUS WILSON.

Of all the days that's in the week
I dearly love but one day,
And that's the day that comes betwixt
A Saturday and Monday.
—Henry Carey.

Had you forgotten who it was that wrote the ever-popular song, "Sally in Our Alley," or did you ever know?

Henry Carey was born in 1663 and died in 1743. Just when he wrote the song does not appear in the data at hand, but it is enough to know that the song has lived for at least two centuries, and its present popularity is such as to warrant its existence for at least two or three centuries more.

This man Carey was an odd sort, one of the sort we don't often read about, and yet know them well.

"What a monstrous tall cat our cat has got," is from a comedy called "The Dragon of Wantley." The life of this line is as persistent as the life of a cat.

"Al de beroptibhoscophe-to!

This couplet is from another comedy which bore the name of the fellow who was left somewhere.

He also had ideas concerning music—advanced ideas and very pronounced, judging from his instructions to the singers, of which follows a specimen:

"Let the singing singers
With vocal voices, most vociferous,
In sweet vociferation out-vociferise
Even sound itself."

And then of some fellow whom he is touching up particularly, he says:

His quotidative faculties immersed
In cogibundity of cogitation."

All this may not strike you as being a mark of talent, yet it is—talent of a sort, and fine of the sort, else it would not have survived these two centuries.

And then a fellow who could do this sort of thing would likely be able to do something else equally well, which Mr. Carey proves by writing the ever-sung and never-dying song, "God Save the King."

"God save our gracious king!
Long live our noble king!
God save the king!"

So you see he wasn't such a bad sort after all. And then he had a heart for a smart girl, and pretty, as shown by the lines in the old song:

"Of all the girls that are so smart,
There's none like pretty Sally."

* * * * *

This brings us back to the old songs again—those old songs, the mention of which recalls sweetest memories. The folks like to read about them, and to sing them again, and to talk about them, and some write to us about them, telling how glad they were to have them recalled.

Sure enough, 'Sweet Kitty Clyde,' that bright, sweet song we sang and sang for a long time. There was another, 'Kitty Clyde's Sister,' but it never became very popular. And don't forget 'Captain Jinks of the horse marines,' a jolly piece that was sung by everybody, young and old. But I must not get started on this trail, for I'll not be able to break away short of a column," writes a friend who knew the old songs, and does not forget.

Let us introduce another good friend who remembers well, and can tell of some old songs which were veritable household pets.

* * * * *

June 30, '03.

Dear Quiet Observer: I have been very much interested in the revival of the old songs. Perhaps a mention of a few, from my old song book written nearly 40 years ago, may interest some one, and bring to mind days, and even hours, of the "Good Old Summer Time."

"This is 'looking backward'" in reality. There are few, indeed, who with years of gladness, have not had a share of sorrow. But it is not with sadness we sing:

"I have wondered today to the hill, Maggie,
To watch the scenes below—
The creek, and the creaking old mill, Maggie,
As we used to, long ago.

"But now we are aged and gray, Maggie,
The trials of life nearly done,
Let us sing of the days that are gone, Maggie,
When you and I were young.

Then follows the lines:

"But to me you're as fair as you were, Maggie,
When you and I were young."

This shows us that time does not alter the affection of youth, if it does leave marks upon form, face and hair.

If life has had more of gladness, let us sing:

"Oh, dear is my cottage, unclouded by sorrow,
And sweet is the bower my Emeline wove,
And not from the gay or the wealthy I'd borrow,
While blest with the smile of contentment and love,
The gay mirth of children, their playful caresses,
The unceasing delight to a parent must prove;
Then talk not of him, who more splendor possesses,
My wealth is the smile of contentment and love."

Some of the unmarried men and women today will recall with sacred remembrance:

"The story of the past, Lorena, alas! I care not to repeat.
The hopes that could not last, Lorena,
They lived, but only lived to cheat.
I would not wake a pain with one regret
To rankle in thy bosom now;
For 'ti we try, we may forget
These words of thine, long years ago.

"It matters little now, Lorena,
The past, it is the eternal past,
Our heads will soon lie low, Lorena,
Life's tide is ebbing out so fast.
There is a future, Oh, thank God!
Of life this is so small a part,
'Tis dust to dust beneath the sod.
But there, up there, 'tis heart to heart."

Will not some of your readers give us the true story of this song? The sequel to "Paul Vane," Then, along with the sadder strains we sang, "The Gypsy's Warning," which warned the girls that the "gay deceiver was abroad." As there is a difference of opinion as to the sex of this personage, I had better not say "he." But the song goes:

"Trust him not, oh, gentle lady,
Though his votes be low and sweet;
Heed not him who kneels before you,
Gently pleading at its feet.
Now thy life is in its morning,
Cloud not thus thy sunny lot;
Listen to the gipsy's warning,
Gentle lady, trust him not."

With the many others we recall this one of childhood's home:

"Childhoods days now pass before me,
Forms and scenes of long ago,
Like a dream they hover o'er me.
Calm and bright as evening's glow.
Days that knew no shades of sorrow
When my young heart, pure and free,
Joyful hailed each coming morrow,
In the cottage by the sea."

After all, can we truthfully sing:

"Ah! those were the happiest days of all, Maude, Gathering up the shells from the shore."

How many can tell of the parties of those days, of the games that were played—the forfeits paid? The kissing subject, which we have heard so much about, would have been entirely worn out, had a discussion arisen then, for don't you remember:

"Oh, Sister Phoebe, how merry were we.
The night we sat under the juniper tree,
The juniper tree, heigh, ho!
Take this hat on your head, keep your head warm.
Take two or three more while you're now in the mood
'Twill do you no harm, but a great deal of good.
But a great deal of good, heigh, ho!"

Our Ships Abroad.

The American squadron which has been so cordially entertained at Kiel goes next to English waters, and will be as cordially entertained there, says the Washington Star. King Edward will not be behind the kaiser in hearty manifestations of appreciation of his guests. This is all very well and very much related in the United States. We are the friends of both Germany and Great Britain. Their ships are welcome in our waters, and ours very naturally are welcome in their waters. The era of peace stimulates courtesy and increases good feeling. May the era long continue! But should it unhappily come at any time soon to a close, neither Germany, Great Britain nor the United States would be found wanting in spirit to defend its own, to carry out a program of assertion, because of any compliments that are now being exchanged. Politeness and hospitality, given or received, weaken no man's fighting qualities.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 1.—With the return of bright, warm days Trinity churchyard again is sought by many visitors to New York who have heard so much about the beautiful church which faces Wall street in a busy part of Broadway, and whose spire was once, and not long ago, the highest structure in the city. The church itself is always open for worshipers. The pews are wooden, straight-backed boxes, with occasional cushions, provided by the owners of the sittings, but generally without anything to soften the wooden bench. The chancel is handsome in its stately simplicity, and the pipe is lofty and inspiring. On certain days in the year, notably Thanksgiving and Ascension day, there are special services which attract people from all parts of the greater city, while the midnight services at New Years, and the Christmas exercises, are famous. There is a vested boy choir, of course, and one is sure to hear a good sermon preached either by the rector, Dr. Morgan Dix, a relative of that famous Gen. John A. Dix, who gave the order to shoot any man that hauled down the American flag, or one of the vicars. Dr. Dix does not preach often nowadays, on account of his age and infirmities, but his influence is perpetually felt in the church and church matters. It is a treat to anyone to attend a service in old Trinity, no matter what may be one's inclinations in a denominational way, and it is necessary to go early on any Sunday morning to get a good seat—or, indeed, a seat at all.

Rich in Historical Lore.

Trinity churchyard is rich in historical memories. As in Trinity in Pittsburgh, there are tombs 200 years old, with many others that cover the dust of persons who were great in their day, and whose deeds will live for many ages. American soldiers of the revolutionary war lie side by side with professors, and there are statesmen who represented the British government close to men who were high in the councils of George Washington. They all lie alike in their graves. There is the statue of a lord justice who held his position from the English crown and lawyers of New York came as eminent whose titles are less imposing. There are settees and cool shady nooks in the cemetery, while just a few feet away, separated by an old iron railing fence, is bustling Broadway, roaring down toward the sea. Strangers of the truth that in a few years all the men and women in the mighty throng will be as quietly under the turf as those sleeping people of long ago in the old churchyard of Trinity.

Syracuse Is a Jonah Boat.

Commuters who have to ride on ferryboats every day soon get to know the craft that are known as "Jonah boats." One of these, the Syracuse of the West Shore railroad, took a new vagary this morning. She snapped her rudder chain on the starboard side, and the big, blunt-nosed old thing went drifting down with the tide, frightening several hundred passengers on their way to business in Manhattan. She was caught when she had passed the battery, by a rope being passed to her from a tug, by which she was swung around and taken to her slip at the foot of Franklin street. What the commuters would like to know is what new stunt the old tub on the North river will attempt next. With the exception of the Pennsylvania railroad and New Jersey Central railroad boats the collection of ferryboats on the river are about as bad, as a whole, as any antiquarian could find in a 1,000-mile journey.

Deevey Somewhat Like Devery.

Jefferson Deevey is his Kiplingesque name. He was made a police captain in 1900, and he liked the job, even though all graft has been done away with. Then some zealous civil service commissioner discovered that there had been an error in Deevey's police record, he having been fined 10 days' pay once for being off post, which fact had not been taken into consideration when he was declared eligible for a captaincy. The next thing, under the law, was for the police commissioner to reduce him to the rank of sergeant. Deevey is trying to get back his captaincy, and from all that appeared to the matter today, most likely he will gain his point, and again take possession of his gold shield, with the power to tell everyone in the precinct to "G'wan."

Amen Corner Is Deserted.

Gov. Odell has gone to the Yellowstone for a vacation. That means a cessation of those little confabs in "Amen corner," to which Senator Tom Platt always looks forward with so much pleasure. But Odell will be back before the fall, so there is a glimmer of hope ahead.

Quinn Does His Duty.

Head first into the East river, in full uniform, dived Policeman Thomas Quinn today. Some man had been thoughtless enough to tumble into the water, and it was Quinn's official duty to pull him out. Which he did. But fancy swimming, with a drowning person in your clutch, in full police uniform—helmet, belt, revolver, club, boots and all.

Shamrocks to Sail Out Today.

Shamrock III. was not repaired entirely today. The main sheet traveler, which broke yesterday, and brought the boat's trip to an untimely end, has been in the hands of experts, and is expected to be all right tomorrow. Then Sir Thomas Lipton will take the challenger and Shamrock I. for a race off Sandy Hook lightship. A little thing like a broken traveler does not trouble the knight, so long as the accident does not happen while the Shamrock is actually contending for the cup.

Pretty Rough on Hoboken.

While the police are investigating the supposed "suicide club" in Hoboken, there is a well-defined sentiment in Manhattan that there is nothing attractive about such a club composed of people compelled to take their lives in Hoboken.

Pittsburghers Off for Europe.

The famous American liner St. Paul got away this morning for Liverpool. Among the passengers in the first cabin were these from Pittsburgh: Miss Jennie Balston, Miss Stewart, Miss Martha J. Graham, C. A. Dickson, Mrs. John Smethley, Robert L. Smethley, W. Johnston, Charles A. Miller and Roy A. Hunt. There was a very heavy passenger list, and every part of the big ship was occupied. It is remarked that there are many persons crossing the Atlantic from New York to the steerage this year. This is taken as a sign of the general prosperity here, many persons visiting the old country who could not afford to go at all if times were not so good as they are.

Visit to Chinatown.

FRANK A. PARKER.

You might win the friendship and trust of Chinatown after years of waiting, but you could lose it in a moment. That was the experience of Detective Richard Kelly and the late Detective Paddy Fitzgerald, who was killed by the Biddie boys. Kelly and Fitzgerald made many a trip through the local Chinatowns before they were accepted as friends. At last they could enter a Chinese dumbille without being greeted by a smell of punk—which is supposed to drive away evil spirits—when they knew that the terror and friendliness were reconciled. That story, as told by Detective Kelly the other day, shows how they one night lost their standing in Chinatown.

It was all caused by a banquet. The excuse for the banquet is not necessary to the story. Kelly and Fitzgerald had hundred pieces at the local board, and their spirits rose as the flow of wine proceeded the other way. Nor that they got too much of the sparkling stuff. There is an old German proverb that "One often drinks too much, but never enough," and the two detectives proved this proverb to be a reliable. They had exactly enough. The law of supply and demand had met and it was a draw.

Call on Old Friends.

Let's go down and call on Yee Chin," suggested Fitzgerald, as the two detectives were leaving the banquet hall.

It was Saturday night, and the banquet having ended early, Kelly was not loath to take a run after some of his Celestial friends, and they started. From one place to another they went until they at last dropped in on Yee Chin, who was proud to have callers attired in swallow tail coats and with vests that exposed a wide expanse of the sort of linen it was his delight to polish. Nothing was too good for the callers, and Yee Chin played the host to the best of his Chinese ability—which any one who has ever been friends with the denizens of Chinatown knows is worth while.

It was late when the detectives were ready to leave. They were escorted down stairs and out through the kitchen, and on the kitchen table Kelly spied a market basket filled to overflowing. Being the last man to make his exit, it was an easy matter for him to remember the basket, he thought, without Yee Chin being any the wiser. And off he walked with the whole household's Sunday provender.

The Accusing Basket.

The following morning Kelly awoke to see his wife standing over him.

The girl tells me you went to market last evening, for she has found a great basketful on the kitchen table. Did you bring it?" she asked.

"Never saw any basket," he replied. "What's in it?"

To answer that question required a trip to the kitchen, and Mrs. Kelly soon returned to report that the basket contained 20 dozen pork chops and four prince pies.

"Not guilty," declared Kelly, who knows the danger of a man incriminating himself, and always stands by the guns till driven to cover. No amount of cross-questioning would produce a single admission from him, but the final thing he did when he got down to the office was to call Fitzgerald over into a corner and tell him about the trouble in China.

"We've got to fix that up," was the only comment of Fitzgerald. Business developed that kept the two men busy, and it was several days before they got a chance to visit Yee Chin.

An Odor of Punk.

When the two detectives arrived at the domicile of Yee Chin a few evenings later, they were greeted by the odor of burning punk. No longer were they received as friends, but as evil spirits.

"See here, Chin, what's this beastly smell meant for?" demanded Fitzgerald. "Aren't we friends of yours?"

"No friends, Kel no friend," replied the wily Celestial. "His steal pork chops. Chinamen have eat all Sunday at last minute. All pork chops, all mince pies, gone. Kel know."

"Ah, come now, Chin," coaxed Fitzgerald. "Kelly was only playing a joke on you. He didn't really steal your pork chops. It was just a little fun. You're not going to burn that stuff every time we come around to see you, just on account of a joke, are you?"

"Joke! Ugh!" exclaimed Yee Chin in a tone of disgust. "Kel no bring pork chops back."

Such an argument was rather a poser, and it took many long weeks for the two detectives to enlighten their friends from the underworld east an to the true inwardness of a Brooklyn American joke. But they finally succeeded, and if you ever want to take a pleasure trip through Pittsburgh's Chinatown, and desire a right royal welcome, I would advise you to invigle Detective Kelly to act as guide, counselor and friend.

Matter of English.

Speaking of Chinamen recalls the experience of a young man who was clerking in a china and glassware store. One day a Chinaman, resplendent in silks and lace, entered.

"What wanter, John?" inquired the clerk in an attempt to suit his words to the unenlightened.

"I would like to see some of your best Hotel," replied the Chinaman in perfect English, and a half hour later he passed through the door, leaving behind him a $500 selection of the finest articles in the place.

Just how thoroughly the clerk enjoyed that half hour with the superior Celestial need not be told.

An Object Lesson.

Anti-imperialists not too far gone in their peculiar delusion may find an antidote for their dreadful dreams of the havoc wrought by our agents in the Philippines in the recent report of medical officers as to the work of sanitation in Manila, says the Milwaukee Sentinel. The city, in some respects naturally unsanitary and four years ago suffering from the breeding conditions inherited from the old rule, is fast becoming a place fit for the inhabitants of the civilized world. Aided by the accumulated to the decencies and civic instruments of western civilization to live in, the work of sanitation, presenting at first enormous difficulties, moral and physical, to discourage the stoutest heart, has been grappled with steadily and systematically by the medical officers of the army, and today Manila, once a plague-ridden city and notoriously one of the unhealthiest centers of population in the world, shows a death rate (formerly exceedingly large) that compares not unfavorably with those of Boston, New York, San Francisco, Glasgow, Paris and Vienna.

Season for "Whoppers."

It is the season of strange stories. Two men told one, a day or two ago, about a girl who tried to eat a dozen live snakes, and the next guy to get back with one about a conductor on a New Jersey railroad who restored a pocketbook of lost money to its owner and was rewarded with a $1.60 bill.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

J. R. P. BROWN HAS A QUESTION

Wants to Know Why Efforts Are Made to Hush Up Facts of Recorder's Death.

HE HAS HAD A HARD TASK

Trouble Unearthing Cause of City Official's Demise—Will Not Say He Suspects Murder, but Makes Significant Remarks.

"Although my brother, the late Recorder Brown, died on March 15, and I have been trying since then to get the cause of his death, I have been unable to do so," said J. R. P. Brown yesterday at the coroner's office, as he looked through a pile of papers bearing on the case.

"Why don't those people who know things about the last few days and the death of Joe come up and tell it?" continued Mr. Brown. "What object have they in keeping it back? Some persons have absolutely refused to respond to summonses, and others have made requests that nothing more be said about the case. These, too, were people who were close to Joe during his life. What is their object?"

From the circumstances surrounding the death of Recorder Brown it is acknowledged that death could have been caused in four ways, viz: By suicide, by being poisoned, through an overdose of sulphonal, which he took at times to make him sleep, and by a general break-down of health.

The dead man's brother will not say what is his opinion of the cause of death, but he made some significant remarks yesterday from which strong inferences could be drawn. Among other things he said:

"My brother was a strong man, and expected to live for many years, although he had been having poor health previous to his death on account of his political worries. He was not the man to take his own life. He knew the strength of the stuff he was taking to induce sleep, and I do not believe he took anything like the large quantities that it has been stated he put into his stomach. Why, he must have eaten it like pie if the stories told can be believed.

"As to his poor physical condition, would it have been likely that the officers of the Western Pocahontas Coal Company would have selected him to succeed Joseph G. Crawford as president of the company on the Wednesday preceding his death if they thought he was a physical wreck? That is what was done at a meeting in New York. That company had on its directorate some fine business men, including Charles Morgan of New York, a cousin of J. Pierpont Morgan, and several officials of the Pennsylvania railroad, including Mr. Crawford, the company's engineer, who looked over the 28,000 acres of coal land the company secured in Boone and Wyoming counties in West Virginia. My brother had $11,500 invested in the company.

"I have been working hard to unravel the mystery, and will continue to do so. Some people have refused to testify in the case, but they will be compelled to."

"Do you expect to bring out anything sensational as a result of your investigations?" was asked Mr. Brown.

"That I refuse to state," was the reply.

Although Mr. Brown would not say what he thinks caused the death of his brother, it is important that he explained away only three of the four ways in which it is surmised the recorder died. The one he left open would result in a murder charge against someone if there is anything to it.

DENIES RAILROAD'S RIGHT.

Hollywood Land Company Charges Collusion Between Two Railroads.

An important legal question is raised in a bill in equity filed by the Hollywood Land Company against the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad Company, an action to restrain the latter from appropriating land belonging to the plaintiff in North Versailles township.

It is charged in the bill that the resolution of merger between the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad Company and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company was passed collusively and at the direction of the latter company for the purpose of securing to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, a foreign corporation, rights and privileges denied it by the laws of Pennsylvania, and that the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad Company is not authorized by law to appropriate property, and that such appropriation by the company is illegal and void.

Emeyer Now Bigelow's Chief Clerk.

W. Minemeyer, chief clerk in the bureau of water supply and distribution, was promoted yesterday by Director E. Bigelow to the position of chief clerk of the department of public works. The position pays $2,000 a year.

PERSONALS

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad brought to the city last night J. W. Mattison of Baltimore. He was on his way to Chicago on a business trip. He is engaged in the exportation of leather, principally from sheep skins. He claims it is difficult to get a good quality of leather. That portion of hide which was used exclusively for razor strops is now being put to many uses, principally for leather belts, chairs and buggy seats. The demand for strops is greater than for several years.

Mr. Smithy of Akron, O., an agent of a rubber company, arrived in the city last night. He says that the imports of the rubber are not sufficient to meet the demands of consumers.

William C. Jones, a well-known inventor of Mc. N. J., is in Pittsburgh at present engaged in erecting his portable furnace for the melting of Babbitt and other similar metals at the Edgar Thomson steel plant of the Carnegie Steel Company, Limited. Mr. Jones is also the inventor of a machine for rolling steel gears and car wheels. His machine has attracted considerable favorable notice from capital interested in such matters.

PURE WATER FOR THE SOUTH SIDE

City Has Right to Buy Out Water Company in Three Years and a Half.

FILTRATION READY THEN

Contract With the Monongahela Concern Will Expire December 14, 1906, or Just in Time for the New Plant to Be Ready.

The South Side can have filtered water easily if the city of Pittsburgh will but start at once the work on the said filtration plant recommended by the filtration commission. An investigation yesterday into the official records revealed the fact that the contract of the Monongahela Water Company, which supplies the South Side, will expire December 14, 1906, three years and six months from now, or just about the time that the city would be in a position to furnish to the citizens the non-poisonous water it should give.

The contract between the city and the Monongahela Water Company was effective December 14, 1853, for a period of 21 years. This agreement supplanted one made for the five years before that time. It was agreed on the part of the city that no extensions of the city water pipes would be made in the period of 21 years and that the Monongahela Water Company should extend its pipes into any portion that would need the water service, if the company would receive 20 per cent earnings on its investment.

At the end of 21 years it is provided that a board of appraisers shall fix the price at which the company's property is valued and the city shall have the right to buy the property at that price. If within six months after the expiration of the 21 years the city does not take advantage of this provision, the contract shall remain in force and can be terminated only on giving a year's notice. The city shall have the right to pay for the company's property in five installments.

The South Side has long been a bone of contention in the filtration matter, but the question will be settled easily now if the city will but take it up at once.

It will require several years to build such a plant as is needed, but once built, this plant will be a monument that will last practically forever, showing the wisdom of this generation of Pittsburghers. The pure, non-typhoid water can be turned into the mains of the South Side as well as those of the rest of the city and every part of Pittsburgh made free from the disease-breeding material now sent through the water pipes.

It has been pointed out that in no way can Pittsburgh make itself a city worthy to be a "Greater Pittsburgh" than by furnishing in this way a wholesome drinking and cooking water. If the boroughs and townships are to be added to Pittsburgh, they must be attracted to it by the advantages enjoyed by the citizens of Pittsburgh and the record of having the highest typhoid death rate in the United States is hardly a good argument to be used in urging the smaller towns to link their fortunes with this city.

A THIRD COMMISSION WOULD BE AN ABSURDITY

Prominent Engineer Says the Best Method of Filtration Has Been Decided.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 1, 1903.

To the Editor of The Pittsburgh Gazette:

Dear Sir:—I have read with interest the interview of Dr. W. J. Holland on the filtration question in this morning's issue of your paper, and also your editorial on the same subject. I heartily indorse the doctor's remarks, and I particularly say "Amen" to your editor's opinion that it is an utter absurdity to have another commission to "investigate" the filtration problem. The city has already paid a large amount of money and spent several years in thoroughly investigating the question, and any further investigation is only a loss of time and money. The experts employed by the city in investigating the subject and preparing the plans are all experts in their several lines. The chief engineer of the filtration committee, Allen Hazen, C. E., is probably the best-posted engineer in the United States on the subject of water filtration, and he has been ably seconded in the preparation of the plans by Morris Knowles, C. E., the resident engineer. Both these gentlemen are honored members of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and the honesty of their opinions on the subject of filtration of water supply would not be questioned by the members of that society, although some of the members of city councils and politicians seem to question them. Dr. Holland's remarks as to Dr. Walter A. Riddle of this city and William A. Copeland, the bacteriologist, are also true; they stand prominent in their professions, and it is certain that no councilmen's committee can learn much more of the subject than is given in the reports of these gentlemen.

If the councilmen really desire more information on the subject than the report of the filtration commission and the experts employed by them, they should consult a report of "the joint commission of the chamber of commerce, Engineers' society of Western Pennsylvania, Allegheny County Medical society and Iron City Microscopical society on the present condition and improvement of the water supply of Allegheny county." This joint commission did its work without a dollar of expense to the city, and with an eye only looking to the best interests of the citizens. On this commission were such engineers as George S. Davison, Samuel Diescher, Charles Davis, James H. Harlow and Gustave Kaufmann.

The chemical section of the Engineers' society was represented by J. O. Handy of the Pittsburgh testing laboratory; Prof. P. C. Phillips of the Western university; T. M. Hopke and Hugh Emery.

From the Allegheny County Medical society were Dr. A. J. Davis, Dr. J. M. Duff, Dr. F. LeMoyne and Dr. E. G. Watson, the city bacteriologist.

The chamber of commerce was represented by Joseph Abel, William M. Kennedy, Thomas P. Roberts, C. E., and W. L. Scaife.

The following members of the Microscopical society were also on the commission: George H. Clapp, J. H. Logan and George B. Taylor.

All the above gentlemen are eminent in their various lines; men who gave their time and services without cost to the city, and were men whose report on the subject was certainly unbiased, and worthy of being accepted by any unprejudiced person.

The sum and substance of their report can be summed up in a sentence which is quoted from that report, viz: That the water shall undergo purification by the process known as sand filtration."

Now, after not only the report of the filtration commission and the report of the joint commission, quoted above, some of the city councilmen, in their great desire for information, want another report. Why? Is it because they do not honestly believe the two commissions that have already reported, or is it because some of the makers of mechanical filters have seen them?

To any ordinary business man the conclusions and recommendations of such a representative body of men as the joint commission would be final and conclusive and would have been acted upon long ago, and, in the words of your editor, the idea of a third commission is an absurdity.

UNANIMOUS VOTE FOR JUDGE EWING

Uniontown Jurist Only Candidate Named for President of Bar Association.

PITTSBURGH IS HONORED

Judge MacFarlane One of Vice Presidents, and Other Allegheny County Men Are Named on Committees—Address of Day.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, PA., July 1.—The Pennsylvania Bar association closed a successful convention with a banquet tonight. Several interesting papers were read at the morning session and officers were elected in the afternoon. Ex-Judge Nathaniel Ewing was unanimously elected president, and Allegheny county was honored by the election of Judge James R. Macfarlane as one of the vice presidents. Allegheny county members of the executive committee are George B. Gordon and Edwin Z. Smith. William Scott of Pittsburgh was appointed one of the delegates to the American Bar association.

The convention was called to order at 10 a. m. George W. Carr of Philadelphia discussed "the Recent Amendments to the Bankruptcy Act," and Henry C. Niles "Jeremiah S. Black and His Influence Upon the Laws of Pennsylvania." Henry A. Fuller of Wilkesbarre read a paper on "The Constitution Between Friends," a humorously pessimistic contribution. In speaking of the legislative enactment increasing the salaries of judges, Mr. Fuller said:

"A few judges would not accept the increase, even if a decision were obtained in favor of its validity; a few would not accept unless such decision were obtained, and not a few would not refuse if the vouchers were offered, regardless of any decision, adverse, favorable or none at all."

Election of Officers.

At the afternoon meeting the delegates to the American Bar association were appointed by President C. Larue Munson as follows: J. B. Colohan, Philadelphia; William Scott, Allegheny; J. T. Frederick, Lycoming; alternates, Sydney R. Mercur, Luzerne; Caspar Dill, Dauphin; James T. Maffet, Clarion.

When the nomination of officers was in order, William Scott of Allegheny nominated Judge Nathaniel Ewing of Uniontown for president, and R. F. Hopwood of Judge Ewing's county, Fayette, and Mr. Hampton Todd of Philadelphia seconded the nomination. Judge Ewing was unanimously elected, was escorted to the chair, and in a few words thanked the association for the honor conferred upon him.

The following officers were also elected: Vice presidents, George B. Orlady, Huntingdon; Richard C. Dale, Philadelphia; James R. Macfarlane, Allegheny; Harry J. Steele, Northampton; George A. Allen, Erie; secretary, William S. Shaler, Philadelphia; treasurer, William Penn Lloyd, Cumberland; executive committee, George B. Gordon, Allegheny; Robert E. Umbel, Fayette; Alonzo T. Searle, Wayne; M. Hampton Todd, Philadelphia; William A. Wilcox, Lackawanna; Joseph H. Fory, Erie; Charles H. Gergner, Dauphin; A. W. Holding, Chester; John C. Ingham, Bradford; John B. Colehan, Jr., Philadelphia; Edwin Z. Smith, Allegheny; Charles I. Landis, Lancaster; Isaac H. Barber, Carbon; J. P. S. Gobin, Lebanon; Charles M. Clement, Northumberland; John I. Rogers, Philadelphia; Quincy A. Gordon, Mercer; William H. Allen, Warren; Samuel Grumbine, Crawford; William I. Schaffer, Delaware; Wallace H. Ralls, Lawrence.

The proposed legislative act requiring sheriffs' and coroners' deeds to be recorded in the office of the county register of wills instead of the prothonotary's office was referred back to the committee on law reform, to be reported on at the next annual meeting. The proposed act improving and shortening the phraseology of deeds and mortgages and providing for a new system of registration of land titles was referred to a committee.

The convention, by unanimous vote, decided to not express an opinion on the constitutionality of the judges' salary bill.

To Abolish Judicial Oath.

Dimner Biber of Philadelphia introduced a resolution abolishing the judicial oath, which was referred to the law reform committee. Judge Harry White's bill giving a widow the same interest in a husband's estate as the husband has in deceased wife's estate, was referred to the law reform committee.

A resolution by J. McE. Carpenter of Pittsburgh went to the same committee. It provides for an act of assembly referring to the orphans' court all lunacy, habitual drunkenness and divorce proceedings and all administrations of trusts, except those for the benefit of creditors.

The banquet was held tonight and fully 400 persons, men and women, sat down to it.

James B. Dill of New York responded to the toast, "Commercialism and the Law." Commercialism in the highest sense he welcomed.

"When we turn to the great business corporation, the United States Steel Corporation," he added, "we find James H. Reed of your bar sitting in its councils, not alone as a great legal adviser, but as an acknowledged executive. Will any one suggest this as an example of capitulation to commercialism? We turn again to the greatest combination in the world, the government of the United States, and when in the midst of a crisis there was a call for a member of the cabinet to fill a delicate and difficult position, namely, that of attorney general of the United States, again the bar of the state of Pennsylvania was called upon, and one of your former ex-presidents, Mr. Knox, Mr. Reed's partner, was wisely selected.

"The appointment of one of the recognized advisers of incorporated capital was asserted by some as a capitulation of commercialism and to capital by the government, and yet today, in the states of Minnesota and Dakota, where this appointment was at first depricated, the mention of no name awakens more popular enthusiasm than that of Philander C. Knox."

Homer B. Gordon of Pittsburgh was chosen for the toast, "Causa Proxima Non Remota Spectative."

To the last toast, "Ourselves," W. U. Hensel, ex-attorney general, responded. He is a former president of the association. J. D. IRMISEN.

DEMAND MODIFIED BY STEVENSON

Leader of Hays Faction to Ask for Competitive Rights on Duquesne Way Alone.

ENLISTS THE AID OF MAYOR

Fight to Give Other Roads Access to Private Warehouses on the River Front—Compensation Clause Is to Be Used as Club.

Councilman W. H. Stevenson has modified his demand that the Pennsylvania company shall allow other companies to use its proposed elevated line. Mr. Stevenson said yesterday that he would be satisfied if the company would give other companies the use of the portion of the line down Duquesne way from Eleventh street to Third street, instead of the entire road in the Point district. He said he would make a fight to have an amendment of this kind inserted in the ordinance at the meeting of the joint corporations committee on Friday night.

"Unless there is a clause of this kind in the ordinance the merchants below Eleventh street will be at the mercy of the Pennsylvania, for, if the Point district is not open to competition, the Pennsylvania can charge large shippers and receivers of freight whatever it wants for switch privileges.

"There is to be a big warehouse, owned by a private syndicate, in Duquesne way, and if no other road can get down Duquesne way the Pennsylvania will be able to practically control this warehouse, although it will not own it. I concede that the Pennsylvania has the right of the exclusive use of the road to its own warehouse system, which will be farther down, but it has no right to keep out other roads from getting into a warehouse which it does not own and which is supposed to be for the accommodation of shippers in the Point district generally."

It is understood that if the Pennsylvania will agree to give other roads the right to use its tracks down Duquesne way, between Eleventh and Third streets, under a traffic arrangement whereby the Pennsylvania will be paid for this privilege, the Stevenson-Hays faction of the councils will withdraw its demand for a compensation.

No offer of this kind will be made, however, until after the results of the fight for a compensation is learned. If the compensation clause is adopted by the corporations committee it will be used as a club to force the railroad company to agree to the other proposition, with the promise that if it submits the compensation clause will be taken out.

The call for the meeting of the joint corporations committee for Friday night was issued yesterday. A call for a meeting of the corporations committee of select council will be held this afternoon at which the Baltimore & Ohio ordinances are expected to be approved. Other select council meetings have been called and a special session of select council will be called when the committees are ready to report.

The executive committee of the Voters' Civic league at a meeting yesterday afternoon decided to issue a bulletin upon the Duquesne way ordinance. Curtis M. Willock, secretary of the league, stated that this bulletin would simply analyze the ordinance and state the views of the league upon it.

"We will not go into the political feature or discuss the fight between Mayor Hays and Director Bigelow," said Secretary Willock. "The bulletin will not be issued until after action by the joint corporations committee, and the league will be governed largely by the action of the committee."

Will Soon Be Four Track Line.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 1.—(Special.)—Contractor Patrick Scanlon will begin work this week in constructing the third and fourth tracks of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie from near Beaver Falls to this city. When the work is completed the Lake Erie will have a complete four track system.

She has entered suit against a well-known New York millionaire for $250,000 for alleged breach of promise to marry. She was tendered a check for $50,000, but says it's a vindication she wants.

DOORS ARE OPENED.

Two Trust Companies Yesterday Inaugurated Their Business Careers.

Two financial institutions of much importance threw open their doors yesterday for business. These were the Home Trust Company and the Oakland Savings and Trust Company. The Home Trust Company occupies the former building of the Pittsburgh National Bank of Commerce, Sixth avenue and Wood street. The Oakland Savings and Trust Company is located at Atwood and Forbes streets. It absorbed the Oakland Savings bank.

Deposits of $160,000 were the first day's business of the Home Trust Company. Just 50 accounts were opened, of which 20 were savings accounts. Four tellers were kept busy answering inquiries and attending to the work. The decorations of the bank's interior are all new, having been changed since the Bank of Commerce moved out. About 4,000 square feet are occupied by the banking and real estate departments.

The Oakland Savings and Trust Company likewise had a very successful opening. The handsome building rooms were filled all day long with its friends and there was much to interest in the day's proceedings.

By formal action of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania and the American Trust companies the two companies were merged yesterday. This marks the completion of another step in the American's growth. It was expected that some announcement of the terms of the American and the Colonial trust companies' entrance into the big merger, including the Fidelity Title and Trust Company bank, would be made yesterday, but none was given out.

THROWN AND DRAGGED.

Descendant of a Famous Family Is Dying in Patton Township.

Robert H. Beatty, a farmer of Patton township and a descendant of a famous Pennsylvania colonial family, was fatally injured yesterday by being thrown from a horse while riding near Turtle Creek. His foot caught in his stirrup as his horse dashed away and Mr. Beatty was dragged several hundred yards. Two hours after the accident he was found unconscious in the road.

Mr. Beatty is 60 years of age and on account of his advanced years no hope is expressed for his recovery. He is a descendant of Capt. William Beatty, who commanded a company in Col. Henry Bouquet's expedition to Fort Duquesne in 1764. Capt. Beatty took a large claim of land in the vicinity of Monroeville, where the family still resides.

WANT NEW COUNTY ROAD.

Delegation from Penn and Plum Townships Urge County Commissioners to Act.

L. W. Shirley, J. W. McCracken, James Parks, J. W. Drape and others, comprising a delegation of property holders in Penn and Plum townships, called on the county commissioners yesterday to urge the improvement and building of a new public road in the townships, beginning at Pockatos creek, on the line of Westmoreland and Allegheny counties, to a point on the Pittsburgh and Saltsburg road where it is now improved.

The road will pass through a thrifty farming settlement connecting these townships with the East End, Pittsburgh, and resulting in cheaper produce to that section and to Pittsburgh proper, because the farmers will have good roads at all seasons. It will also be advantageous as a coal road, they argue, many excellent mines having been opened along this route.

A petition was presented to the commissioners and it will be considered.

QUAY COMING HOME.

Letter from Maine Says Fishing Party Will Return This Week.

A letter was received at the federal building yesterday from United States Marshal Stephen P. Stone. In it he stated that he, Senator M. S. Quay and the other members of their party were at Fort Kent, Me., having arrived there after their canoeing expedition. They expected to leave that place on the date that the letter was written, June 28, and would come home by way of Quebec, Montreal and Buffalo. They should arrive here the latter part of the week.

All the members of the party are in the best of health, according to the letter, Senator Quay being in particularly good health and spirits.

CRASH IS THREATENED IN STEEL CAR COMPANY

Suit Entered Against a Canton Concern and Inventor May Come Here.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CANTON, O., July 1.—(Special.)—The first of a series of suits was brought against the Structural Steel Car Company by one of the creditors of the concern today in the Stark county courts. The indications point to a crash unless capitalists come to the rescue of the stockholders.

W. H. Tylee and C. L. Tylee, eastern capitalists, were in Canton yesterday and made a proposal for the purchase of the plant. They were unable to come to an agreement with the stockholders and today the creditors decided to push their claims. Raymond Woodcock, who holds the patents upon the steel cars which were to be the product of the plant, went to Cleveland a few days ago, where he consulted with his attorney as to the advisability of instituting a suit in the United States court in Cleveland to recover his patent rights from the company.

Woodcock today went to Pittsburgh, where plans are on foot for the organization of a new company, and the subsequent erection of a new plant in that city. Woodcock is backed by Pittsburgh capitalists. It is understood that a number of Cleveland capitalists are interested in the Canton company. The company is capitalized at $500,000.

LONG'S PARTNER ARRESTED.

Man Who Stoned an Officer Confesses to Numerous Robberies.

FUNKSTOWN, PA., July 1.—(Special.)—A sequel to the capture of Wallace Long, the runaway from Huntingdon reformatory, occurred last night, when John O'Hare, the man who stoned the constable in the street car, was arrested. O'Hare appeared in the vicinity of Anita yesterday and told some women that he was going to kill the officer when he met him. Constable Walker was sent for, but O'Hare escaped. Last night he was arrested near New Florence. He was armed with a knife and revolver. In the lockup this morning he acknowledged several robberies and told the constable where to find burglar tools they had used. He made other statements which may lead to the unearthing of one of the worst gangs of robbers and counterfeiters which has ever infested this community.

CAPTURED TWO EAGLES AFTER A HARD FIGHT

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 1.—(Special.)—After several hours hard work and a fierce struggle with the mother bird, in which Frederick Butcher was driven from the nest, a force of men under John A. George, of Cumberland, yesterday captured a pair of young eagles in the mountains near Green Spring, W. Va. George brought the young eagles to his home in this city and today has a man stationed near the nest to shoot or capture the mother bird.

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 1.—A broken switch frog at Beaver, Pa., 50 miles north of Cumberland, on the Huntingdon & Broad Top Mountain railroad, early today overturned an engine and wrecked 10 freight cars, some of which rolled into the river. The water was scalding hot, and the unfortunate boy was scalded from his feet to his neck.

ONFESSION IS SPRUNG AT TRIAL

Witness in the Kountz Murder Case Said the Defendant Acknowledged Deed.

MRS. KOUNTZ NOT A WITNESS

Commonwealth Making Strong Effort to Convict the Doctor of Killing Contractor John E. Walsh While Out Walking With the Defendant's Wife.

Dr. Walter P. Kountz was placed on trial yesterday charged with the murder of Contractor John E. Walsh, who was shot to death on the evening of May 9, within 300 feet of his own house, while out walking with Mrs. Margaret Kountz, wife of the defendant, who also received two bullet wounds, from which she has recovered. The only sensational evidence produced during the trial was that of Charles P. Johnston, a produce dealer, residing near the home of the murdered man, who reached his side shortly after the shooting, and who declared that Kountz came up, handed him the revolver and said: "I am the party who did the shooting and surrender."

An entire morning was taken up selecting a jury, consisting of Benjamin Miller, Tarentum, foreman; Frank H. Speer, Pittsburgh; W. W. Campbell, Scott township; F. H. Kirker, Aspinwall; John Johnson, Greentree; George R. Cashdollar, Patton township; William Sharp, Sewickley; Jacob Dierken, Homestead; George Stadtman, McKees Rocks; Charles Langdon, Chartiers township; James M. Fullerton, Pittsburgh; Robert Dickson, Fawn township.

Mrs. Kountz Was Absent.

Mrs. Kountz was not in the court room yesterday and is not expected during the trial. She will not be permitted to testify against her husband. The defense gave no indication of its side of the case and permitted witnesses to go with but little cross-examination, making but one objection during the day. It is evident they will not question the fact that Walsh came to his death from pistol wounds.

District Attorney John C. Haymaker, Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb, Jr., and Attorney John Marron represent the commonwealth, and Attorneys Jackson & Lang, Clarence Burleigh, Clarence Burleigh, Jr., and Chauncey Lobinger are looking after the defendant's side of the case, which is being tried before Judge MacFarlane. Kountz's appearance indicated perfect health, and he did not seem to fear the outcome of the trial. His father and brother sat near him all day.

After District Attorney Haymaker had outlined the case, defining the different degrees of murder, malice, etc., and giving a short history of the domestic relations of Kountz and his wife, he concluded by stating that when the defendant and his wife quarreled and he left the house, she entered suit against him for desertion, and remained at the house for three weeks, until the night of the shooting, when Kountz fired three shots at Walsh, all taking effect, and three at his wife, two taking effect. He stated: "We expect to show you that the killing was deliberate and malicious; that Kountz shot him in the back, that he had no reasonable right or excuse for taking the life of the man, and we will ask a verdict in accordance."

Victim's Brother Testifies.

Alderman W. E. Walsh, a brother of the dead man, said Walsh was 41 years old and left two children. He said the shooting occurred 325 feet from the Walsh house in Northumberland avenue, in the direction of Wightman street. On cross-examination he was asked to repeat in detail the descriptions of distances.

W. S. Bell, the photographer, exhibited three photographs of the vicinity. Walsh was recalled and said he appeared in one photograph standing on the exact spot where the blood had stained the pavement.

Dr. Walter C. McCandless described the wounds as given at the coroner's inquest. He gave it as his opinion that the shots came from in front, because, he reasoned, had the one that passed through his side and back entered from the rear, striking the spine would have effected the rotary motion of the bullet and resulted in a ragged wound. Small, clean holes in front also indicated an entrance on that side.

Mrs. Margaret Penney, housekeeper for Walsh, said he and Mrs. Kountz left the house at 8:05 that evening, the contractor showing her his watch. She heard revolver shots, hurried to the front door and saw a man stop suddenly 50 feet from her. He sharped a revolver, which was pointed towards the ground, ran across the street to an apple tree opposite, passed behind a lot of rails and disappeared. She did not recognize him, having only seen Walsh once before the killing. He was dressed in dark clothes and answered the description of Kountz. She was cross-examined.

Surrender of Kountz.

[illegible] P. Johnston, a commission merchant residing three doors above the Walsh residence, was the first to reach the wounded man and woman. He was sitting on a lawn, heard five revolver shots and saw five flashes of fire. The flashes indicated the revolver was downward, the others that it was level. He turned off the water and walked rapidly to the scene. A man whom he did not recognize ran from the shots were fired down Northumberland avenue. He found Mrs. Walsh lying on the street, six feet from the curb, and trying to rise with one hand under her. Walsh was lying 15 feet from Mrs. Kountz, also on the street, but with his head on the curbstone. The witness was about to tell what Mrs. Kountz said to him, but was not permitted to do so. The witness went to Walsh, who was holding his hands about his chest. He asked, "Is that you, Jack?" and Walsh answered "Yes." Johnston grasped Walsh's hand, and as he was stooping over him, Kountz came up, he could not tell from which direction. Kountz, the witness testified, while standing over him, said: "I am the party who did the shooting and surrender." The witness took the revolver which was held in his hand.

Sounded Like Platoon Firing.

On cross-examination the witness stated the shots were fired in such rapid succession that it sounded as if more than one person was firing. He testified that Mrs. Walsh was nervous and greatly excited. Her pallor was a stone color. He was unable to state whether the expression in Kountz's eyes was unnatural or not.

Lord McFarland, a police officer, testified to arresting Kountz. He had no conversation with the prisoner except at the police station, when Kountz, at 11:20 o'clock, asked, "How are the people?" He told Walsh was dead he said no more. The witness said he saw Inspector Robert S. Gray remove six empty shells from the revolver at the Walsh house. The witness was not cross-examined.

Wesley Rodgers, a colored driver, who lives within a square of the Walsh residence, testified that he found a loaded shell of the caliber of Kountz's revolver, in the apple tree opposite the Walsh house. He was subjected to a rigid cross-examination as to the exact spot on which the cartridge was found, the hour when it was found and to whom he made known the find. He answered he found it at about 9 a. m., a little south of the tree, and he told a Mr. Bailey about it a few minutes after picking it up. Later he told the family about it and afterwards the district attorney. Attorney Jackson cross-examined Rodgers more closely than any of the other witnesses.

The case will be resumed this morning.

CHURCH UNION AGREED UPON

Joint Committee of Three Religious Bodies Adopted Platform and a Basis.

AFFILIATE THROUGH COUNCIL

Methodist Protestants, United Brethren and Congregationalists to Retain Individuality—Proposition is Up to Governing Boards.

Each to retain its name and form of worship, its colleges and benevolent institutions, but to affiliate on all matters of importance, the affiliation to be made through a general council. The latter is to be made up of one representative for every 5,000 members of each respective church.

Such is the basis of the union agreed upon by the representatives of the Methodist Protestant, United Brethren and Congregationalist churches who met in the Young Men's Christian association building all day yesterday.

The greater part of the day was taken up in considering the report of a subcommittee which met in Washington, D. C., on May 27. This report embraced a number of recommendations and a letter to the churches. It was amended to some extent and finally adopted. An address to the governing bodies was also adopted and both will be sent out for consideration at once. The recommendations of the sub-committee were as follows:

Sub-Committee's Recommendations.

First—That the basis of representation in the general council shall be one for every 2,000 members.

Second—The powers of the general council shall be advisory, and any recommendations it may make shall be referred to the constituent bodies of the three denominations for approval.

Third—That a committee of three from each of the general bodies represented shall be authorized to arrange for the time and place of the meeting of the first general council.

Fourth—That the first session of the general council, a temporary organization, shall be effected by the election of a chairman and secretary, and that the council itself shall determine the officers it may need, and the manner of permanent organization it may prefer.

Fifth—The purposes of the general council shall be: To present to the world some realization of that unity of believers which, in accordance with the prayer of our Lord, seems so desirable among Christian churches; to promote a better knowledge and a closer fellowship among the Christian bodies thus uniting; to secure as far as possible the unification of kindred organizations now existing in the several bodies; to consider methods by which, in each state, annual or district conferences, the bodies may be brought into co-ordinated activity and organic unity; to prevent the unnecessary multiplication of churches, and to unite weak churches of the same neighborhood wherever practicable; to invite and encourage the affiliation with this council of other Christian bodies, cherishing a kindred faith and purpose.

Contents of Letter to Churches.

The letter to the churches gives a history of the work of the joint committee and an explanation of the work done and the results hoped for.

In the opening note is made of the many meetings held and the careful consultations that ensued. Practical difficulties were recognized but it is believed that they can be overcome. Doctrinal differences did not appear. In their beliefs they were in essential harmony. With respect to forms of church organization and methods of work there are diversities for the removal or adjustment of which time and patience will be needed. The committee believes it possible for the three denominations to form, not merely a goodly fellowship but a compact union.

They believe that the mission and educational boards of the three denominations shall form a working agreement by which they may be co-ordinated in service and ultimately united. Weak churches could often be united and members from any church removings to home in the neighborhood of either of the affiliated churches, should be commended to their fellowship. Other practical methods of united work will suggest themselves. All this would be preliminary to complete unity.

Council Will Consider Question.

The method recommended, by which practical unity may be secured, is the formation of a national body to be called the "General Council of the United Churches," to meet once in three or four years, and in which each denomination shall be proportionately represented.

The purpose of this general council shall be to study the things that make for unity and peace, to promote fraternal and helpful relations among all the churches and to formulate and recommend to all churches methods by which such co-operations could be carried into effect. Its powers would be advisory. If possible the national meetings of the several denominations should be held at the same time and place as that of the general council, the same delegates being chosen for both services; and that frequent recesses of the council be taken to allow of the holding of the necessary business meetings of the constituent bodies.

The committee recommended that state, district and local organizations of the three denominations, Sunday school and young people's conventions and ministers' meetings in cities, be held at the same time and place, and when this is not feasible, that fraternal delegates be exchanged. The interchange of literature is recommended that the membership of the respective bodies may become familiar with the spirit, polity and methods of the others. The letter says:

Objects of the Union.

It will be seen that your committee has in view a working union which is much more than a federation, which contemplates large and important combinations of resources and efforts, and which looks toward organic unity. It is surely not impossible that these denominations standing together, consulting together and seeking first, not Methodist Protestantism, nor United Brethrenism, nor Congregationalism, but the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, will be able to find ways by which they may adjust their differences of local administration and unite their forces all along the line. Each would make some concessions for the common good, and each might receive valuable contributions of practical wisdom from the others.

Dear Brethren: The undersigned have been acting as a committee under the authority of your respective bodies for the purpose of considering the question of uniting these bodies.

The first meeting was held in Pittsburgh April 22 and 23, 1903, where the whole question was thoroughly discussed, both in conference between the committee of the three bodies each other, separately and in joint conference. A committee was appointed at this meeting to formulate the details of the plan agreed upon and report to the full committee. This sub-committee, consisting of five from each committee, met in Washington, D. C., May 27 and 28, 1903, and agreed upon a report to the full committee, which was called for its final meeting at Pittsburgh July 1, 1903.

At this meeting the various questions relating to the matter of union were gone over very thoroughly, and the committee was respectfully submit the results of their deliberation.

First—We are agreed that the formulated statement of doctrine to be held by each of these bodies at present are essentially the same; and we affirm them all as expressing the truth as it is in Jesus.

Second—We are agreed that these bodies shall retain their present name and their autonomy in respect to all local affairs, but that they add to their official title the words "in affiliation with the general council of the united churches."

Third—We recommend that these bodies authorize the creation of a general council, composed of representatives elected from the respective bodies on the basis of one representative for every 5,000 members.

More Information to Be Sent Out.

The rest of the letters consisted of the recommendations numbered from 1 to 5 in the report of the sub-committee and the statement that a letter covering the ground more fully had been sent to the churches at large.

Dr. Washington Gladden of the Methodist Protestant church, chairman of the joint committee, and Dr. W. M. Weekley of the United Brethren church, secretary of the joint committee, were chosen as commissioners to present the matter to the governing bodies. As these do not meet until next year the project will stand still for a time. In the meanwhile the letter to the churches will be sent to every minister of the three denominations, that it may be laid before the congregations and considered deliberately.

NEIGHBORS TO HEAR PRESIDENT ON FOURTH

Will Make Patriotic Address to People of Huntington, L. I., and Spend Balance of the Day at Home.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 1.—This was an unusually quiet day at Sagamore Hill. With no visitors except an occasional neighbor, President Roosevelt had plenty of time for reading and recreation with his family.

Instead of swinging along smooth country roads, perched on the box of a four-in-hand coach, on the Fourth of July, as Mr. Richard Cannon of New York desired him to do, President Roosevelt will that day, in patriotic vein, address the people of Huntington, L. I., who call him "Neighbor. The plans for the reception of the president when presented to Secretary Loeb contemplated that the president should ride from the Selph to Huntington, a distance of three miles, on a tally-ho. Mr. Loeb promptly blue-pencilled this feature, because tally-ho riding, especially on the Fourth with firecrackers popping on every hand, is too dangerous a mode of locomotion.

Half a dozen big cases containing skyrockets, pin wheels, roman candles, aerial bombs, pyrotechnic flower pots and set pieces, as well as an abundant supply of cannon crackers and torpedoes arrived here today, and were sent straightway to Sagamore Hill and stood in a room on an upper floor without the boys being given an opportunity to examine them. An expert in fireworks will come from New York to set off the display and to so manage the event that there will be no danger of accident.

The president did not spend last Fourth of July at home, and the family is in high spirits at the prospects of fun on Saturday.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, who has been visiting friends in Massachusetts, arrived this evening.

Clarence H. Mackey, president of the Pacific Commercial Cable Company, will see the president tomorrow to make arrangements for the formal opening of the cable to Manila July 4.

PREFERS PRISON CELL TO CHURCH

The Rev. R. C. Fillingham Leaves for England, but Promises to Return.

HE HAS NO FEAR OF ARREST

Sends Parting Shot Toward Ritualistic Churches Before He Takes Vessel for Home—Calls Them "Worshipers of Wafer."

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, July 1.

"When I am out at sea I will look back to America. I will pray God to enlighten it, and when I return marching on to the conflict against that which I have vowed to crush, I will show fight that, with God's help, will crush out this burning outrage."

So spake the Rev. R. C. Fillingham, vicar of Hexton, England, before boarding the St. Paul this morning.

He will return in February, and at that time he and his followers threaten a war which will sweep the vestments, incense, "senseless bun," and, to them, other objectionable fixings from the high altar in the Church of St. Mary the Virgin.

"I want to go back to Hexton and free myself for a while from the turmoil of America and the stench of high church service," he said. "My convictions are strong, and I have the courage to stand by them. I say they are idolators, because, to say it nicely, they worship the wafer. They are no better in this sense than the fire worshippers. But I will tell them something when they do not expect it that will horrify these ritualists."

Dispatches were shown to Mr. Fillingham quoting various opinions of his efforts, and he said:

"If I did not have enemies to my faith I would be sorry. I would feel that the idolators did not pay any attention to my views. There have been things said of them that were entirely false. All I ask is to return to my Hexton. I will come back to America in February, and then watch me. Watch my campaign against this practice."

"Are you afraid of arrest in case you cause a disturbance?" he was asked.

"Arrest," laughed the vicar, "arrest to me would be a help in my course; but no, no, I am not afraid of arrest. They say the prison cells in America are white and clean, and that is more than your ritualistic churches are."

CHURCH FIXES SUM OF DAMAGES

First Presbyterian Congregation Wants $183,000 for Virgin Alley Widening.

ORIGINAL DEED PRODUCED

This Interesting Document Shows What Plot Was Given by the Penns for Only Five Shillings—Trustees Ask to be Exempt from Benefits.

The First Presbyterian church trustees want $183,000 for damages to the church from the widening of Virgin alley. This estimate was presented yesterday to the board of viewers. The church will lose a strip of land 24 feet wide and 110 feet long. The trustees stated that the benefits to the church would not exceed $45,000.

S. Ewart and Charles E. Speer, trustees of the church, and their attorney, Smith Shannon, appeared before the board. They firmly expressed the opinion that the widening of Virgin alley would not benefit or increase the value of the property, as it was to be used for church purposes only. They admitted, when interrogated by Assistant City Solicitor T. D. Carnahan, that the market value of the property would be enhanced if it were to be used for business purposes.

They claimed that the widening of Virgin alley interfered with the original plans for the new church fronting on Sixth avenue, which was intended to have a larger seating capacity than the old church, but that it would have to be smaller now. Joseph Painter and H. J. Watkins, real estate men, testified, respectively, that the property was worth $50 and $42 a square foot.

A very interesting document was introduced by the trustees of the church as proof of ownership. This document is of interest on account of its historical associations and by reason of the contrast which it shows in the former and present value of the property. It was the original deed for the property, dated September 24, 1787, and signed by John Penn, Jr., and John Penn, residents of Philadelphia and formerly proprietors of Pennsylvania.

The deed states that the two lots and half of another were given in "consideration of the laudable inclination which they have for the encouragement and promoting of morality, piety and religion in general, and more especially in the town of Pittsburgh, and for the sum of five shillings, current money."

The deed conveys the property to the trustees of the Presbyterian congregation of Pittsburgh and the vicinity thereof, in the county of Westmoreland, and stipulates that the property shall be used for church purposes alone. The signatures of the Penns were witnessed by Peter Miller, John Spooner and John F. Mifflin before George Bryan, justice of the peace of the supreme courts of Pennsylvania.

RICE BEER PROMISES TO DAMPEN DRY SPOTS

COLUMBUS, O., July 1.—(Special.)—Prominent brewers of the state have evolved a scheme whereby they expect to nullify the effect of the supreme court's recent decision, that bilsby's beer and other malt liquors are taxable under the Dow law. They plan to manufacture a mildly alcoholic beer from rice. Malt will not enter into its composition, and they might as well try to brew which have been worked "dry" under the Hall local option law, at least until a test case has been adjudged by the courts.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

Charles P. Bergum took out letters of administration on the estate of Karl Bergum. Attorneys Marshall & Marshall have charge of the estate.

Decrees in divorce were issued Carrie against Alexander Carbie; Catherine Robertson against Albert Robertson was charged in both cases.

The will of Mrs. Catherine Nicholl was filed and letters on her estate taken out by George Henry Nicholl. Attorney William A. Gordon represents the estate.

A suit for $5,000 damages was entered against the Philadelphia Company by Anna Dugan, the owner of property at No. 1911 Larkins alley. She alleges that on June 15, 1903 the company allowed its pipes to become broken, allowing gas to escape in the cellar of a house owned by her, causing an explosion and total destruction of the house.

An answer was filed in the case of the Collins Clear Company against the Union Brewing and Ice Company. An attempt is reported on a bond given for Robert Stewart Burkhart, a traveling salesman for the plaintiff. It was alleged that Burkhart realized a certain amount of the firm's money. It is denied there was an embezzlement, but that the money had been legally expended by Burkhart.

BRIDGE JUMPER DID NOT ATTEMPT HIS ACT

"I want to jump off the Point bridge," were the words of Jack Martin of New York city to Ordinance Officer Murray Livingstone at the police building yesterday morning. "I am the best jumper and diver in the world, and I want to give exhibitions at the Point bridge."

Officer Livingstone looked over the man and told him the bridge was there for persons to walk over, and not to commit suicide on. Martin left the building and was followed by two detectives to see that he did not harm himself. It was learned later that Martin is a professional bridge jumper, but had been out of engagements for some time.

A Sick Liver

Can work havoc with human happiness. It can change the cheerful philanthropist into a morose misanthrope and the optimist into a pronounced pessimist. The liver has a great deal to do with the removal of the waste of the body. When it is sluggish in its action the whole body must suffer by reason of clogging accumulations.

The excretory organs in general promptly respond to the action of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It restores the liver to healthy activity, purifies the blood, and cures diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

Mr. Edward Jacobs, of Muscogee, Crawford Co., Indiana, writes: "After three years of suffering with trouble and malaria, I gave up all hopes of ever getting about again, and the last doctor I saw told me I could not live more than a month. I had tried all the home doctors and received but little relief. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, I was much improved. It is due entirely to your wonderful medicines."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains you lose. Therefore, accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery." They are easy to take, agree with the weakest constitution, and do not beget the pill habit.

RUPTURE MEN, Women and Children CURED in 30 to 60 Days

My lifelong study and scientific research made me the ONLY physician who could be loved for any material progress in getting a procedure that would effect a permanent cure for the most aggravated form of rupture.

There is no possible grounds for believing that trusses will cure this disease. They often fail in their mission of holding the rupture in place.

The surgical operation is dangerous, painful, and NEVER SURE! My Electro-Chemic Method consists of the combination and modification of electrical and medicinal currents (powers) can be trusted to do SURE and EFFECTIVE WORK. DR. GEO. B. WIX,
The discoverer of the Electro-Chemic Method.

His has devoted years and years of unbroken study to the development of his treatment, and has accomplished the greatest record of CURES in all medical and surgical annals. His printed promises are as good as a bond, because he has the facts and power to back them up.

GEO. B. WIX, M. D.:
DEAR DOCTOR—I wish to testify to the efficacy of your Electro-Chemic Method for curing Rupture. I suffered with Rupture for about two years. Trusses did me no good. I took your treatment and for more than a year I have neither seen nor felt anything of the Rupture, notwithstanding the fact that my work is very heavy—being employed constantly at a sawmill. I cheerfully recommend it to any and all who are afflicted in like your Electro-Chemic treatment, for I know it will cure them.
Yours truly,
J. F. WEAVER, Lisbon, Ohio.

Coma Italian and Emancipation is Free! I will guarantee to cure you and will give you letters of introduction to persons living right in your own neighborhood whom will be only too grateful to recite the painless, speedy cure after every other treatment had failed.

A Remarkable Cure of Piles.
Export, Pa., March 18, 1903.
"I suffered with a bad case of Piles for about 10 years. Tried 50 kinds of ointments without benefit, took treatment from other rectal specialists, but received no relief, finally tried Dr. Wix's Electro-Chemic System which cured me in a very short time. This treatment is all that Dr. Wix claims for it. I suffered no inconvenience and lost no time from work while undergoing treatment.

SOUTH NEGLEY RESIDENCE SOLD

A. B. Baxter Buys the Gaertner House at No. 334 for $35,000.

BAILEY FARM COST $250,315

Good Deal in Morewood Avenue—Buyer Made Known After Six Months—Two B. & O. Purchases—Big McKeesport Deal Pending.

Another fine residence in the East End has been sold through Samuel W. Black & Co. to A. B. Baxter, the broker, for $35,000 cash. It is known as the F. Gaertner house, and stands on a lot 60x121 feet, at No. 334 South Negley avenue. The property is located on the west side of the avenue, about midway between friendship avenue and Baum street, and adjoins the property of J. C. Wilson. The residence was built about seven years ago. Considerable interest attaches to it from the fact that it cost over $40,000 and has a very fine interior finish. As designed originally the entire finish was to be after the style of the high-class houses in Germany. With this in view the owner imported the marble carvings and art glass from Italy, and the onyx mantels, ceiling decorations, etc., from Germany. Before the house was completed it changed owners, but the second owner carried out most of the original plans. The walls are of stone and the house contains 16 rooms, provided with every modern convenience. Mr. Baxter will occupy it as a home in the near future.

Somewhat of a Drop in Price.

The announcement that the Bailey farm in the Thirty-second ward brought only $250,315, instead of $400,000, as reported when the sale was made two months ago, will occasion no little surprise in realty circles. The deeds were registered in the deed yesterday, transferring the property from the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, the administrator of the estate of James M. Bailey, to John Lohmann, who took title to it in the interest of Clifford B. Harmon for Wood, Harmon & Co., the well-known realty operators. The property has the following frontage: 1,136 feet on the south side of Bailey avenue, near Ruth street, 210 feet in Judicial street, 1,218 feet in Beltzhoover avenue, 991 feet in Washington avenue, 690 feet in Ruth street and 472 feet along the Pittsburgh & Castle Shannon railroad, whose right of way is reserved in the deed. The farm contains about 84 acres which brings the price down to $2,968 an acre. Last week after considerable trouble the tenant was induced to move off, he having been paid, it is said, $15,000 for his lease by Cooper & McAllister, through whose agency the farm was bought. Surveyors have finished plotting the property and the work of grading and sewering is to be started soon.

Deal for Cork Factory Site Just Made.

The papers were signed yesterday and not till then in the sale of the four-acre tract at Ben Venue station, which the Bruening Cork Company has bought as a site for a big factory. C. G. Peut and Charles Donnelly owned the property and the deal was negotiated by the former. The site, generally known as the Wallace plot, measures 400x50 feet, immediately east of Ben Venue station and fronting on the Pennsylvania railroad. It was learned that the price paid was away below the figure quoted a few days ago, $200,000. The capital of the Bruening Cork Company, which also owns a large part of Oakdale, is to be increased to $1,000,000 and $1,000,000 worth of bonds are to be issued with the Colonial Trust Company as trustee. It is estimated that the proposed plant will cost $250,000.

Through the agency of Thomas McCaffrey E. W. Samert has sold to A. Samuel No. 5831 Penn avenue, two brick houses on lot 21x130 feet, for $14,000. He also sold for Charles Ahlborn to H. A. Mencher two frame houses and a brick dwelling on lot 27x100 feet, at Thirty-eighth and Butler streets, for $8,000.

East End House Brings $16,040.

The Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company sold for John Dewar of Allegheny to William A. Henshaw a residence property, 64x199 feet, on the west side of Morewood avenue, near Bayard street, Twentieth ward, for $16,040.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company has secured title to two properties for $10,000 and $8,000 respectively. One belonged to Eliza S. Miller and consisted of an improved lot, 44x145 feet, in Lytle street, Twenty-third ward. The property was recently condemned and finally sold to the Glenwood Railroad Company, a Baltimore & Ohio adjunct.

The smaller lot was bought from John T. Broerick by the Schuylkill Improvement Land Company, another Baltimore & Ohio concern. It was an improved lot 41x26 feet, on the south side of Second avenue, near Brewery street, Sixth ward.

Louis A. Salemink has purchased from C. H. Aleman a residence property 20x66 feet on the west side of Federal street, near Fifth avenue, Seventh ward, for $10,100.

Buyer Discovered at Last.

It develops that Dr. R. H. M. McKenzie was the buyer of the property at No. 636 Penn avenue, the sale of which was announced last January. It belonged to Dr. C. F. Seip and the deal was made through the office of J. P. Donovan & Co. The property consists of a three-story brick house on lot 20x60 feet, adjoining the Varnar property, and the consideration was $80,000.

It is reported that a three days' option has been secured on the National hotel property in McKeesport, the consideration being $100,000. The prospective buyer is said to be a capitalist from West Virginia who will erect a department store if he gets the property. The hotel was lately remodeled and enlarged at considerable expense.

North Braddock will not have an athletic ground on the old Anderson homestead, as announced some time ago. Charles M. Schwab, Thomas Morrison and others were seriously considering the project of buying the property for $150,000 for this purpose, but now it is reported that the homestead will be sold and plotted.

Selling Fast in Soho.

Behol, Carl Cappel has just disposed of three more of the houses he is building in Soho at $3,500 each. No. 157 Moultrie street was bought by Mrs. Blanche Zadikow, No. 147 Moultrie street by Thomas Masciles, and No. 137 Moultrie street by John Cook. The houses are six-room brick dwellings on lots 20x80 feet. This makes 12 sold out of a total of 20 which Mr. Cappel has built there within the year.

Bought on the Bluff.

Bluff street: M. J. Ehrenfeld of the Consolidated Real Estate Company sold for Mrs. M. Klingbeiler to Julian Morrow No. 1631 Bluff street, a six-room brick house, lot 25x88 feet, for $3,000.

Penn avenue: Frank Brunwasser sold to Max Topolsky an improved lot 24x60 feet, on the southeast side of Penn avenue, Twelfth ward, for $5,500.

Darrah street: Gault & Giffen sold to Prof. Morris Stephens No. 246 Darrah street, a three-story brick house on lot 40x115.5 feet, for $8,500.

Carson street: The Pittsburgh Insurance Company sold to Samuel Markowitz an improved lot 20x80 feet, on the south side of Carson street, Twenty-ninth ward, for $7,500.

Boggs avenue: Frank Schenley of Orange county, Cal., sold to Fred Fuchs and Joseph Stockmeyer of this city a two-story frame house, lot 21x227½ feet, in Boggs avenue, Thirty-second ward, for $9,500.

TWO AGED PERSONS FELL DOWN STAIRS

An aged man and woman are in the McKeesport hospital with what are expected to prove fatal injuries, both as the result of accidents of a similar nature, which occurred in McKeesport at about the same time yesterday. Mrs. Charles Meyers, aged 60, of Bowman avenue, fell from the second floor landing of a flight of steps and received severe internal injuries, in addition to a number of bad bruises. John Russell, 67 years old, of Market street, fell down a flight of steps and received a severe concussion of the brain.

GREAT FREIGHT CONGESTION NOT EXPECTED TO OCCUR HERE AGAIN

"Such a freight congestion as that which overwhelmed Pittsburgh last year and the year before will never be repeated here, or else I am greatly mistaken in my knowledge of the situation," said one of the most important freight traffic men of this city yesterday.

The same opinion was expressed by the transportation manager of one of the largest manufacturing companies here, a company that sends away several trainloads of its products daily.

At present there is a certain amount of congestion in Pittsburgh, but it is insignificant compared with that which this city has experienced inside of three years. The Ft. Wayne seems unable to handle the whole of 1,500 cars of freight turned over to it daily by the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad, but there are plans working out by which the Ft. Wayne's facilities will shortly be increased in such a way as to relieve this condition. One fact at present makes the traffic particularly heavy on the Ft. Wayne. The furnaces everywhere west of Pittsburgh using Connellsville coke are storing coke ready for an emergency. A big movement of this fuel is now on in consequence.

The Baltimore & Ohio, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and the Pennsylvania railroad seem less worried about the business. The Panhandle seems to be in pretty fair shape, inasmuch as it is complying with a request from the Pennsylvania railroad to deliver to the lines east of Pittsburgh 100 empties daily until further notice.

Made 1,000 Engines in Six Months.

The Baldwin Locomotive works has just closed the first half of the year by delivering its 1,000th locomotive turned out from the shops since January 1. This is the greatest record ever made by any locomotive works and is but 385 short of the production of all of last year. It is likely that about 2,200 will be completed before the year ends. These engines are almost for American railroads. The shops have been too busy to look out for foreign orders or to give space to foreign railroads when the American need was so pressing. The firm has orders that will keep it busy to its full capacity well into 1904. It is a significant fact, however, that the locomotive orders now being placed are not nearly so large as those of the past two years. The fever of excitement aroused by the railroads discovering that they had not kept up to the times has now pretty well subsided.

Ready for Crowds on Fourth.

Preparations for the handling of the great Fourth of July excursion crowds are now well under way in the railroad offices here. All the lines expect a most unusual business, the travel on Decoration day having given indications that on the Fourth, as at that time, the records for local railroad passenger traffic will be broken. The rates offered, one fare for the round trip to any point within 200 miles west of Pittsburgh, make sufficient inducement for the thousands who are not working on that day to visit some park or town within that radius.

The Hornet, Volunteer, E. D. Wood and Tornado have delivered their tows at Cincinnati and are returning with empties.

The Queen City was the down-river packet yesterday. This is her first trip in several weeks, and she had an excellent lady list for the coming up. On her return she had the largest trip of the season.

The John A. Wood has left Louisville with a tow of coal for New Orleans, and the other big steamers, J. E. Tenny, Allen Brown and Joe B. Williams, will probably start with the tows made up from the present shipments.

Several pilots and captains have returned from their trips to the upper Ohio river, and Marker No. 28 is getting back to its normal condition. For the first few days of the work a captain, pilot or engineer could be found asleep on the levee.

The Morgantown packet is leave today will be the Columbia. She will take out an excursion Saturday as far as Lock No. 3. Every steamboman packet and barge will go out on the Fourth and a big day is anticipated if the weather is favorable.

The Ben Hur from Parkersburg is due today. The Greenwood from Charleston and the Lorena from Gauley are due tomorrow. The Kanawha rolls, because her regular trips failed there. This will be the first time in several weeks that all the down-river packets have made regular trips. The present warm weather is conducive to large passenger lists for the Fourth.

Local United States Inspectors of Steam Vessels George H. Adamson and Isaac P. Williams inspected the pleasure yacht Wanneta, owned by Charles A. and George F. Painter of Allegheny, and found it in perfect condition. That she was one of the fastest yachts of her kind afloat, her machinery being able to generate enough steam to send her 30 miles an hour. The Wanneta will be largely in evidence during the Fourth of July up the Monongahela river.

MUCH COAL STILL HERE.

Last Shipment Yesterday—Towboats Lose Many Pieces.

The waters in the local rivers are falling and coal shipments were stopped yesterday after-noon. Local operators have been shipping all that possible, as there still remains in the harbor 4,211 pools, nearly 10,000,000 bushels in boats and barges. Most of the barges have been sent out, but buildups of coal boats did not go down on account of the lack of steamers. About 1,750,000 bushels left yesterday.

The steamers to get away yesterday and the number of tows they brought out were: Keystone, 16 barges each; Enterprise and Fidile, 6 boats and 8 barges each; Stella Moran, Charlie Clark and River, 14 barges each; and Frank Gilmore, 10 barges. These were all the steamers available, and no more will probably be gotten out until soon, as the towboats are not near enough to the harbor to start away again.

The steamer Twilight, which left here Tuesday, grounded two barges at Deadman's Island and another at Logstown. The boat is opposite the light and can be avoided by heading to the right. The pilots of the Queen City report that a barge is at work at the head of Bloomerhead tow-boat, that another is in the channel at Daney's landing, and that a scow or trestle is near the channel below Harmer's boat yard. In addition to these snags the swells from the Enterprise's wash is a constant of the tow of the Jim Wood at Economy. The Enterprise was hurrying to get out yesterday with a tow. Most of the coal in these wrecked craft can be saved.

EVERY true American wants to appear at his best on "The Glorious Fourth"—good dressing is typical of the day. The storekeepers know this as well as they know anything—that's the reason why most of them maintain their early-season prices until after "The Fourth." "The Big Store," however, always gives its patrons the benefit of its reductions when the goods are in greatest demand. Of course, the former method results in greater temporary gain from a money-making standpoint, but the latter wins new friends and tightens the bonds between the old ones—and this is what we're constantly striving for, AND DOING.

With these two motives as incentives—the desire to sport a new suit on "The Fourth," and the chance to effect a saving of 20 to 50 per cent.—there's no doubt but that today and Friday will make history in the clothing world. This clothing clearing carries conviction on its face. As a cold business proposition, it pays to tell the truth. There is no part of this paper, not even the editorial column, that is edited with greater care and scrutiny than our daily announcements. They not only tell the truth, but they tell it in plain, unmistakable terms. And so with this clothing price cutting. We simply say to you, select any suit in our entire stock marked $8, $9, $10 or $12, and pay the salesman only 6.00

select any suit in our entire stock marked $13.50, $15, $16.50 or $18, and pay the salesman only 10.00
select any suit in our entire stock marked $20, $22, $25 or $30, and pay the salesman only 16.00

Nothing could be plainer or clearer; our entire stock (including even the 2-piece outing suits) is now classified in one or other of the above 3 lots—the full dress suits, coachmen's liveries and uniforms being the only exceptions.

All pants reduced same way

We've simply taken the entire stock marked $2.48 and over and divided same into 3 parts, from which you can take your choice now as follows:

1.75 buys choice from all men's pants marked $2.48 and $2.98.
3.00 buys choice from all men's pants marked $4, $4.50 and $5.
4.50 buys choice from all men's pants marked $5.50, $6.50 and $7.

All suits made to order, too, are now subject to deep price cutting. The same high degree of perfection for which this department is noted will be maintained—the prices alone suffer. Here's what we'll do:

At 20.00 we'll now make to order suits for which we formerly charged $28, $30 and $35, giving you choice from all our fancy worsteds and cheviots (exclusive of black).
At 30.00 we'll now make to order suits for which we formerly charged $35, $38 and $40, giving you choice from our entire stock of imported and domestic fancy cheviots and worsteds.

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

Pittsburgh at Brooklyn.

Chicago at Philadelphia.
St. Louis at New York.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 1.—True to their name, the "Unreliables," the Hanlonites played just good enough ball this afternoon at Washington park, Brooklyn, to beat out Clarke's men, 5 to 4, in the ninth inning, in an uphill game. The hitting was pretty nearly even, except for Wagner's home run drive in the sixth, over the right field fence, on which he also scored Clarke. At this stage of the game the visitors' three runs looked pretty big, but after this Brooklyn, aided by a couple of wild throws on the part of the Pirates to catch men on the bases and a little timely hitting in the ninth inning, by which they scored two runs, Brooklyn won the game.

No such exhibition of umpiring has been seen at Washington park as the third game Friday today. Both teams were affected, the home team being the worse sufferer in this respect. Catcher Ritter of the Brooklyns, who had disputed Emslie's decisions on two or three occasions, was finally benched in the eighth inning, Ahearn taking his place, and it was the latter's single that drove in the winning run in the ninth inning.

Wagner and Kruger played first and short respectively in today's game, the shift being necessary owing to Bransfield's continued absence from the game. Capt. Clarke said today that Jimmy would be out of the game for a week at least. He is still suffering from a sprained ankle, received in the game last week at the Polo grounds. His absence is hardly felt as Kruger is filling in nicely at short and "Hans" is delivering the merchandise at the first station.

The Pirates rolled up three runs in the sixth. Beaumont and Clarke reached first and second respectively on the former's single and Flood's error. Beaumont singled and reached first and moved to third on Flood's error of Clarke's grounder. Sebring drove a long fly to Dahlen, scoring Beaumont. Wagner hit the second ball pitched over the right field fence for a homer, scoring Capt. Clarke. Kruger and Leach both popped out to the infield.

The visitors were shut out in the seventh and eighth innings, but scored one in the ninth, but stopped there. Kruger got free transportation to first and then stole second on Lachia's sacrifice. Ritchey singled to right field and on Jennings' bad return of the ball Kruger scored. It was now up to Phelps and Phillippe, but neither could deliver the hit, the former fanned and the Deacon flied out to Doyle.

In Brooklyn's half of the seventh Jennings and Doyle both singled, Jennings reaching third. Phelps hit the ball a long fly, Ritchey's head trying to catch Doyle at second and Jennings scored. Beaumont got the ball and threw wild to third to catch Doyle, who came home on the error.

One more was added in the eighth. Jones reached first on Wagner's misplay. Strang stopped a pitched ball and took first. Shreckengost hit to Ritchey, who tried to catch Strang at second, but threw the ball in to the field and Jones scored.

Doyle and Dahlen opened the ninth with singles. Doyle reached third on Ahearn's long hit to right field which sent them both in, winning the game for Brooklyn. No one out when winning run was scored. The score:

GIANTS HAD THE LUCK.

A Triple Play Saved the Game for New York.

NEW YORK, July 1.—In a game replete with brilliant plays, in which both sides took part, New York won from St. Louis today. A triple play by the locals was the one grand piece of field work that outshone all others. In it Bresnahan, Warner and Davis took part, and, as the bases were full and no one out, it may be recognized a game saver. Currie and McGinnity both pitched good ball, but luck was against the visitors. The score:

"CY" YOUNG,
The American League Star Pitcher, Who Won His Own Game in Tenth Inning at Chicago.

SIR THOMAS WATCHED THE RELIANCE'S SPEED

New Cup Defender Easily Defeated the Other Yachts and Made New Record.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 1.—The three American cup yachts raced again today over a 30-mile windward and leeward course, and once more the Reliance demonstrated her superiority over the Constitution and Columbia. The 1903 boat defeated the Constitution by 6 minutes 30 seconds and the Columbia by 5 minutes 49 seconds. The latter was beaten 19 seconds by Mr. Belmont's craft, but is an easy winner over her on time allowance. The time of 3 hours 5 minutes 53 seconds made by the Reliance betters the new cup course record of 3 hours 9 minutes 53 seconds made on Monday by the new boat. The Constitution today came within 5 seconds of the time made Monday, and the old defender was but 23 seconds behind it.

Not only was the best to windward made in remarkably fast time by all the contestants, but on the run home, with spinnakers and ballooners pulling like mad, the three sloops fairly flew. The Reliance again excelled the Constitution at this kind of sailing, covering the 15 miles in one hour 11 minutes 4 seconds, better speed than most steamboats can make. The Constitution outran the Columbia very little.

The wind had about eight miles strength in it at the start, but before the windward mark was reached it was blowing at from 15 to 18 miles an hour and held thus until after the boats finished.

Summary:

	Start.	Turn.	Finish.	Time.	Elapsed
Reliance	11:16:12	3:09:35	4:20:36	3:04:24
Constitution	11:17:15	3:12:43	4:25:12	3:07:57
Columbia	11:17:00	4:13:07	4:27:16	3:10:16

Reliance beat Constitution 5 minutes 30 seconds. Reliance beat Columbia 5 minutes 49 seconds. Constitution beat Columbia 19 seconds, elapsed time.

Sir Thomas Lipton watched the race closely from the Erin. He kept his glass on the Reliance every minute, and when the boats finished started back for Sandy Hook.

METEOR UNPLACED.

Hamburg Beat Emperor William's Yacht by One and One-Half Minutes.

KIEL, July 1.—In the handicap yacht races from Eckernfoerde to Kiel today the Navahoe was the first to cross the finishing line, followed closely by the Orion. The Theresa was third and the Commodora fourth. In the schooner class the Hamburg beat the Meteor, sailed by Emperor William, by 1½ minutes. A strong gusty northwest wind was blowing. The official awards were as follows:

The empress' Iduna won the cruising schooners' race, on time allowance; the Adela was second, on time allowance, and the Hamburg third. The Meteor, which allowed the Iduna 40 minutes, was not officially placed in the race.

CALLED IT A DRAW.

Jack O'Brien Had All the Better of "Kid" Carter in Fast Six-Round Fight.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., July 1.—"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien had the better of the six-round bout tonight with "Kid" Carter of Brooklyn at the Industrial Athletic club. The fight was a hard, clean and fast one from start to finish. Both men took punishment, but neither man was badly hurt. O'Brien drew first blood. He cut Carter over the eye in the first round and later started his nose bleeding. The Philadelphian received most of Carter's blows on the body, at which the "Kid" kept punching.

The Brooklyn man put up a vicious fight, but the Philadelphia lad was able to avoid Carter's onslaughts by clever footwork. O'Brien managed to dodge nearly a dozen blows, any one of which would probably have ended the fight.

The first round opened like a whirlwind. O'Brien landed first and soon had the blood flowing from over Carter's eye, which later gave him some trouble. In the same round O'Brien caught Carter on the jaw while his guard was open and the Brooklyn man was sent rocking across the stage. The second round was also in favor of O'Brien, but in the third and fourth Carter got in some good body punches, which evened up somewhat the damage done by O'Brien. In the fifth the tide of battle again favored O'Brien. He rained blows on Carter's face, but none of them was hard enough to put him out.

Carter was a bit groggy when he came up in the sixth. O'Brien went after him with hard body punches and blows on the face. The "Kid" took them manfully and tried to land a knockout blow on O'Brien. The Philadelphian was fighting him so fast that Carter's blows went wild and he always went to a clinch.

Bridgeville Got Its Revenge.

The Bridgeville team went to Canonsburg, accompanied by 200 rooters, yesterday and defeated the Guntown boys 16 to 1. Gapen pitched a good game, allowing his opponents only two hits, struck out eight men and did not give a base on balls, while Laughlin was pounded all over the lot. Bridgeville got revenge for the shutout administered by the Canonsburg boys two weeks ago. Score:

STOPPED BY LAW.

American League Secures Injunction Against Davis Playing in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 1.—(Special.)—George Davis, the shortstop for the New York National league baseball team, by the terms of President Harry Pulliam's edict, has been enjoined from playing in Chicago with the New York team. An injunction was obtained today by Sears, Meagher and Whitney, whom it is supposed are representing Comiskey and other owners of the Chicago American league team.

The question of the legality of serving the injunction notice on a holiday, as would have to be done in this case, inasmuch as the New York team is scheduled to play here two games on July 4 and one game on the 5th, is causing considerable anxiety to the lawyers of the American league. The general opinion, however, is that such action would be entirely within the law.

Ready for the Auto Races.

BURNED THEIR MONEY ON HOT CHICAGO TIP

Pittsburgh Sports Made a Special Trip to the Windy City and Were Glad to Get Back.

There returned from Chicago yesterday a delegation of Pittsburgh sports to the number of a dozen, who left here on Sunday night, each one safely tucked away in a lower berth on a Pullman, but who were glad to come back in the day coaches; in fact, some of them were lucky to get back at all.

On Saturday there was received here what in race track slang is known as a "hot tip" on the second event at Washington park, Chicago, on Monday. The tip came from a Pittsburgher who is a race follower and who knows a good thing every once in awhile. The tip this time was "Dick Haldon" and the word from the Windy City was that the lavers on him could get almost any kind of odds.

Of course the sporty boys here could have played the tip in the local books, but the odds were short, and it was agreed to go over to Chicago and plunge. The delegation scraped up every penny it could lay hands on and started on Monday night for the Windy city. At or near Alliance their train got mixed up in a rear-end collision and for a time it looked as though Chicago could not be reached in race time, and there was talk of having a special train, but the difficulty was soon fixed up and the party reached Chicago in plenty of time for the races.

So eager were some of the boys to get out to the track that they missed dinner and were on hand before the books were opened for business. The entire delegation plunged on Dick Heldon. The horse appeared in the race all right, but it was the old story of his getting a bad start, and he finished seventh or eighth. To tell the truth the sporty boys who came back yesterday hungry and travel-worn, were only certain that he did not finish first, and that was enough for them. The amount of good cash burned up on the hot tip was close to $5,000.

LIFE SAVERS BUSY AT ATLANTIC CITY

Several Persons Dragged from Beyond Danger Line in Surf by New Guards.

GREAT CROWDS IN WATER

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 1.

Today marked the first real day of the bathing season, and the beach was simply filled with those who took advantage of the weather to enter the surf. Several of the more venturesome ones went beyond the danger line, and were dragged to safety by the new guards. They, in every case made haste to disappear from the scene of their humiliation without waiting to thank the men who had rescued them.

Steeplechase Pier Opens.

Tonight marked the opening of the steeplechase pier here under the management of George C. Tilyou of Coney Island fame. The whole place has been renovated, and many curious features have been introduced to render it attractive to the people who may patronize it. A cave of the winds, slippery day stairs, and many other laughable features are about the entrance, while inside a vaudeville entertainment is in full swing. The disastrous results that attended the engagement of Sousa's band here last year will not, it is hoped, be repeated this year.

For Man and Beast.

Another odd phase of the license question mentioned yesterday, came to light today, when it was learned that the real reason for the refusals was owing to the fact that the council wished to drive out a lot of semi-respectable characters, who have made it a practice to come here for three months or so and open saloons of a doubtful character. The city solicitor has delved deep into the state liquor law, and has discovered that the law calls for all sellers of liquor to provide "entertainment and shelter for man and beast." This is taken to mean that stables must be erected and operated in conjunction with all saloons. The saloon men promise a serious fight on this question, and have engaged counsel to fight their side of the case, and they threaten to build miniature stables about the size of dog houses and equip themselves thus, as there is nothing in the law which states what size the stables shall be. The city believes that it can beat the saloon men at their own game.

Romance of Postal Card.

Everyone here knows the fever with which the picture postal card fever is raging. Some two years ago Miss Lucile Verner, who lives in Massilon, O., was engaged to a young man named Murthe of the same city. The engagement lasted for some time, then came the lovers' quarrel. They parted, and Murthe moved to Lorain, where he secured a position in the postoffice there as clerk. About a month ago Miss Verner and her mother moved to this city for a few weeks' stay. One day two weeks ago, the young lady had her photograph placed on some cards and mailed one to a friend in Lorain. She was unaware at the time that her former fiance was there. The young man saw the card as it passed through the office, quickly marked down the address, and applied for leave of absence. He then packed his grip and hastened to this city. He called at the hotel where his inamorata and her mother were stopping, and within two days yesterday, to be precise, the young couple were married at the Church of The Ascension here by Dr. Townsend. They will shortly leave for Lorain, where they will make their home for the future.

Troubles of Dog Catchers.

There is a city official here who has rather more than his share of troubles. He is the city dog catcher, who was appointed three weeks ago. Two weeks ago he was arrested for cruelty to animals and fined by the magistrate; then he had the misfortune to pick up the pet Dog of Mayor Stoy and got a wigging from that official. Five days after that he was assaulted by a burly gentleman who took the dog he had captured away from him, gave him a solid thrashing and departed by the train. Now the poor dog catcher is in more trouble. A band of small boys have gotten together and make a practice of acting as avaunt couriers. They precede the dog catcher along the street and drive all dogs to cover. As the catcher gets $1 for every dog he catches and impounds, this makes a serious difference in his receipts, and he has complained to the police, who exhibit heartless indifference to his woes.

W. E. Hildebrand Pays Call.

W. E. Hildebrand, second vice president of the Guardian Trust Company of Pittsburgh, was a caller at The Gazette bureau this evening, and remarked that he was greatly pleased with his first impression of Atlantic City. He is so pleased in fact that he has decided to make this city his resting place for a couple of weeks. He said that the enterprise of The Gazette is to be highly commended, for the beautiful place furnished as a resting place for Pittsburghers.

Horse Dies from Heart Failure.

An odd thing occurred here this afternoon, when a valuable horse that was being driven to the railroad station, shied at the sight of a locomotive, stood still, and then, without a quiver, dropped dead. A veterinary surgeon who examined the animal said it had died of heart failure, due to a sudden shock. He had never heard of a similar case.

Ready for Crowds Saturday.

The largest crowd of the season is expected here for Saturday next and great preparations are being made to fitly celebrate the occasion. As Mayor Stoy has absolutely forbidden the use of fireworks in the city it is expected a large float will be anchored well out to sea and that the pyrotechnic display will take place from there on the night of the Fourth. All the big hotels are arranging more extensive accommodations for the day and the Sunday following. The railroads, too, are putting into effect a schedule that will, it is thought, take care of the hundred thousand or so who will arrive, provided the weather is fine.

SOCIETY

THE Canadian camps will all be opened the latter part of July or early in August. The Yankanuck club goes to its camp on Georgian bay August 5. This club is composed of prominent men in Pittsburgh and nearby towns who bought, a year and a half ago, an island on Georgian bay from the Canadian government, which they named in recognition of the two bordering countries. There are 10 acres of ground on the island with splendid fishing facilities, swimming pools and opportunities for boating and canoeing. The club has its own wharf with a chartered steamer. The new club house was erected last year and completed in time for the camping season. It will accommodate between 50 and 60 persons. In the party this year there will be at least 40.

At the camp this season will be the Hon. William H. Graham and his family, Dr. J. Guy McCandless and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Stone, W. S. Brown, Guy P. McCandless, Robert Holland and E. R. Dowler of Braddock, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Babcock, Thomas Ward and family of Bayard street, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Gerwig and family, ex-Gov. William A. Stone's family, and others.

The party will go direct from Pittsburgh to Penetang, there taking the steamer and cruising among the innumerable islands of Georgian bay until the camp is reached. It is but five miles distant from the camping ground of the Iron City Fishing club.

The Iron City Fishing club expects to leave for its camp on Monday, August 3, in a special train composed entirely of Pullman sleeping cars. At Penetang it will take the steamer and go to the mouth of Moon river, where its reservation is located. Last year a large club house, containing an immense dining hall, kitchen and a few sleeping apartments was erected. It will be in use this season.

Sterilizing Plant for Pittsburgh.

Nathan Straus, the well-known New York philanthropist, has signified his willingness to give to Pittsburgh a completely equipped sterilizing plant for the preparation of the various forms of modified milk for infants. It was at the instance of the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy that the offer was made and it is understood that in proper time the formal offer will be made to the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Sterilized Milk and Ice society, of which Bishop Whitehead and Rabbi Levy are advisory officers.

Mr. Straus has just donated such a plant to Chicago and is about to instal one in Philadelphia, where the work of the Sterilized Milk and Ice society, founded 11 years ago by Rabbi Levy, will be greatly enlarged. These plants are capable of preparing the milk for 10,000 feedings a day. During the summer the various forms of modified or sterilized milk are regarded as very essential for the preservation of the health and lives of infants in the large cities, where infant diseases prove so generally fatal. The results which have been achieved in New York city, which was the original field of Mr. Straus' benefactions in this direction, support all the claims which have been made for the modified forms of milk.

In an interview in Chicago on Tuesday Mr. Straus gave to his wife all the credit for first suggesting the philanthropic work he has undertaken. When Mr. Straus was a park commissioner his wife called his attention to the fact that milk was being sold at 5 cents a glass in the parks. The price was not only high, but the milk was impure. On his insistence pure milk was sold in the parks at 1 cent a glass. It was out of this beginning that his generous benefactions have grown. Mr. Straus was in Chicago to further the work of installing a sterilizing plant in that city, and the success and the enthusiasm and public opinion which have been aroused by the women had something to do with the action of the city council on Monday night in passing a pure milk ordinance. A number of the women's clubs of Chicago took up the pure milk agitation early in the spring, and it has been carried to a successful issue as far as the action of council is concerned.

The only attendant was Miss Mary Elizabeth Rimer, a niece of the bride, as flower girl. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Moore left for an extended trip through the west and on their return will reside at Wilkinsburg.

Benjamin Rogers and His Wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rogers of Homestead will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at their home, No. 111 Fifth avenue, Homestead, today. The aged couple are among the best known residents of the steel town, where they have resided for the past 24 years. Both were born in Wales, Mr. Rogers in South Wales on August 25, 1853, and his wife in North Wales in 1849. Both came to America a few months apart in 1851, and located in Pittsburgh. They were married 50 years ago by the late Rev. David Williams, then pastor of the Welsh Presbyterian church on Second avenue, this city. Danderine

GREW THIS HAIR.

MRS. ANNIE E. SHEEHAN, Weir City, Kansas.

"Testimonial No. 5720."

You must remember that falling hair and dandruff are signs of decay, or a diseased condition of the scalp, and you must not delay treatment. To do so simply means more loss of hair, and a greater impoverished scalp, and finally no hair. The wise thing to do is to correct it at the start. Danderine works wonders in all such cases. It will quickly regenerate the enfeebled tissues, and make your hair grow more beautiful than it ever was. NOW at all druggists, three sizes.

25c., 50c., and $1.00 per bottle.

AMUSEMENTS NEXT WEEK.

"Pirates of Penzance."

At the Duquesne garden all next week, commencing Monday night, the stock opera company will give the first presentation at popular prices of Gilbert & Sullivan's opera comique, "The Pirates of Penzance." For several weeks the principals and chorus of the last opera company have been rehearsing "The Pirates," in this musical offering there is a plot and story with numerous complications that come about naturally, and musical numbers that were popular years ago and are bound to be in evidence again.

William Cortes, one of the principal comedians of the American stage, who has been identified with several New York successes, will make his initial appearance as the sergeant-of police. John J. Martin will interpret the role of the pirate king. Jack Rafael is cast as the major general, a part he has created with the Duff Opera Company, and other well-known organizations. Miss Ruth Rauch, the new prima donna, will be seen to advantage, as will Miss Margaret Robinson, the new soubrette. Josephine Bartlett, formerly of the "Bostonians" and a niece to Jennie Smith Davis, will sing an important role. Harry Davies, the tenor, will also be heard to advantage.

In the Parks.

The Fourth of July arrangements for the parks will include big fireworks displays, balloon ascensions, concert bands and vaudeville. Kennywood will have Rogers's Cowgirl band, morning and afternoon, with Pain's fireworks display in the evening. Calhoun park will have the Great Western band, afternoon and evening, with the Great Eastern Italian orchestra to furnish music for the dancers. Edward R. Hutchison, "the human bomb," will make two ascensions, one at 1, the other at 6:30. Kennywood will have the Mozart orchestra for dance music and the Third Regiment band for the concerts. The St. Clair sisters will make the balloon ascensions. The St. Clair sisters will also have charge of the ballet exhibition at Southern park, where the Herbert orchestra will be on the dancing platform.

CHINESE ARE WORKING TO SECURE REFORMS

Several in This City Who Say They Want to Interest Local Mongols in Movement.

A party of Chinese arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday for the purpose, they say, of interesting the local Chinamen in the movement of the Chinese Empire Reform association. They are Prof. Leong Kai Choe, vice president of the Association; Pow Chee, general secretary; Charles Yip Yen, president of the Canadian branch of the association, and Wong Wat Jee, commercial organizer.

The object of the association is to educate the Chinese in modern ideas, including them the methods of civilization and thrift. A principal feature of the organization is said to be an effort to dethrone the present empress dowager and enthrone Emperor Quong Su, who is a stepson of the empress. They say it is further intended to establish a constitutional government somewhat similar to that in England.

Pow Chee, when seen at the Henry last night, said he will give lectures to the local Chinamen, instructing them in the objects of the association. The first lectures will be given tonight, to be followed by one Saturday. He expects to form a branch of the association before leaving the city for Chicago, where he will continue the work. He arrived from the east, where the party gave lectures in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Branches, it is said, were organized in each of those cities.

M'KEESPORT SHORT OF POSTAL EMPLOYES

The McKeesport postoffice yesterday passed into the first class under peculiar conditions. The office has not enough carriers to deliver the mail and is badly handicapped by having to take the clerks from their regular positions and put them out on routes. Yesterday Chief Clerk James Crossland did this and it is expected that today Assistant Postmaster Charles Walsh will be compelled to take one of the routes. Postmaster W. V. Campbell is doing a standing clerk's work when not engaged in attending the stamp window.

EAT
What You Like

so long as you eat Wheat Meat with it. Wheat Meat is most enticing food and goes nicely with all fruits and with any food. Wheat Meat alone with cream or milk added is the entire breakfast of many thousands, experience proving that better health and greater endurance result from this sustaining diet eaten in the early hours of the day than from a mixed breakfast of slow digesting foods. At the same time, if the choice is for a miscellaneous breakfast, let the meal start with Wheat Meat and cream or milk and the other foods will be more easily disposed of by the stomach. Fifteen cents a package at grocers.

EASTERN STOCKS REACTED SLIGHTLY

London Was a Seller and Traders Took Profits, but the Markets Closed Steady—Money Rates Lower—Local Stocks Dull.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

Sales of American securities by London, estimated as high as 40,000 shares, and profit-taking by professional traders were responsible for a slight reaction in the eastern stock market yesterday. The decline was also influenced to some extent by the weakness which appeared in two specialties, Colorado Fuel and Iron and Hocking Valley. The former sold off from 64¾ to 61½ and made only a slight recovery. The selling was said to represent the liquidation of a loan that was not renewed. Hocking Valley opened at 94½ and broke to 88¾, recovering to 90 at the close. In connection with this decline it was reported that owing to the insufficient supply of boats at Toledo some of the mines of the Hocking Valley had been occasionally closed down to prevent a blockading of the road with coal, and that because of this there was likely to be a falling off in June earnings. A majority of the common stock of Hocking Valley was recently purchased by several leading railroads, the Pennsylvania being dominant, and this transaction leaves the minority common stock outstanding without support. This is probably the real reason for the recent decline, minority stocks where the Pennsylvania owned or controlled the majority being unpopular with the trading public. An illustration of this fact may be had here in Pittsburgh in the case of Allegheny Valley preferred, which has never paid a dividend, and which is quoted relatively lower than any other railroad preferred stock. The decline in the general railroad and industrial list were not important, but the tendency was downward until late in the session, when a rally occurred which carried prices back to the highest of the day, and the market finally closed steady. The sales reached only 338,000 shares, and more than half this total was handled during the first two hours.

Transactions in United States Steel were on a smaller scale and there was no improvement on Tuesday's highest prices. The buying, however, was thought to be of a good character, the same house whose purchases caused the sharp advance at the close of the market the day before being the principal buyer yesterday. Insiders have recently been expressing bullish opinions on the stock, telling their friends that the business in sight assures earnings for the current fiscal year of between $125,000,000 and $130,000,000 tons. The news of the day was not important, except that relating to the weather on the spring wheat and corn countries. The further sharp decline in the grain markets, which closed at the lowest prices of the day, probably had something to do with the final rally in railroad stocks. Two important roads issued statements for May. The St. Paul reported an increase in gross earnings of $217,000, but a decrease in net of a little more than $8,000. For the same month Union Pacific reported an increase in gross earnings of $542,000 and an increase in net of $119,006. The decline in Amalgamated Copper was based upon some weakness in the metal and the closing of one of the smelters of the company.

Call loans were quoted at 6 per cent early in the day, and it was the expectation that the banks would endeavor to maintain this rate over the holiday. Later in the day, however, the offerings were of sufficient volume to depress the rate to 3 per cent, and at the close loans were made at 2 per cent. Considering the magnitude of the operations this week, and the requirements for meeting semi-annual payments, the money market has remained extremely easy. The explanation of this is that Wall street commission houses supplied their wants earlier in the year, taking time money in anticipation of stringency at this time, and hence the demand from this source is lighter than usual. The bank statement will be issued tomorrow, instead of on Saturday, and owing to the Pennsylvania railroad subscriptions, much interest will be felt in the showing. The banks have been gaining cash through sub-treasury operations, and thus far there have been no gold engagements.

The local stock market was a very dull and listless affair and the transactions fell short of 4,000 shares. United States Steel common was moderately active, but after opening firm at 31½@31⅝, the price declined to 31¼, recovering to 31½ at the close, which was unchanged from the day before. The preferred stock sold to the extent of only 165 shares at 81⅝@82, closing at 81⅝ asked. There was no animation in the dealings and the fluctuations followed New York very closely. Crucible Steel common was more active and firmer, advancing to and closing at 15¾. The sales of the preferred were only 17 shares at 80⅝@81. There was some irregularity in the natural gas stocks. Ohio Fuel Supply sold at 41½, a recovery of ½, and at the close was bid up to 42⅜. Philadelphia Company common was firmer, advancing to 42 ex-dividend, a net gain of ⅝. The preferred sold at 46¼, a decline of ¾. Natural Gas of West Virginia sold at 15, a decline of 5 points from the last previous sale. There were no transactions in Manufacturers Light and Heat and the stock was nominally quoted at 39 bid, 39½ asked. The coal stocks were dull but firmer, Pittsburgh common advancing to 28⅜ and the preferred to 86⅞. There was nothing doing in River Coal, the common being quoted at 10⅝ bid and the preferred offered at 39½ ex-dividend. Westinghouse Electric was dull and unchanged and Airbrake was entirely neglected. Harbison-Walker preferred sold at 65, a slight decline, and the common was quoted at 9 bid. National Fire Proofing preferred was firmer at 36½.

The dealings in the bank and trust company stocks only slightly exceeded 100 shares and prices were not much changed. Real Estate Trust reacted 2 points and closed at 292½ bid. Safe Deposit and Trust was offered at 450, a decline of 7½ per cent from recent sales. No transactions occurred in the stocks embraced in the Colonial-American Trust consolidation. The stockholders of the Pennsylvania and the American Trust companies formally ratified the merger of these two companies, and another step was thus taken in the consummation of the larger consolidation. There were no sales of bonds and prices remained unchanged.

U. S. Steel Affairs.

There was less comment in local financial circles yesterday on the appointment of W. E. Corey as assistant to Mr. Schwab than might have been expected, in view of the gossip of the past two weeks relative to important changes in the personnel of the management. It was stated yesterday in an authoritative manner that the effort in some quarters to make it appear that the appointment of an assistant was a roundabout way of eliminating Mr. Schwab from any voice in the affairs of the company had no fact to support it. On the contrary, the appointment was made at the request of Mr. Schwab for the reason stated in the official announcement. Equally without foundation, it is said, are the reports of any friction between Mr. Morgan and Mr. Schwab, and the stories of the latter's alleged speculations in London and the continent were made out of the whole cloth. As a matter of fact, the financial relations existing between Mr. Schwab and the management of the corporation, and his holdings in the latter, it is said that he has recently been a large buyer of United States Steel common, and that no later than Monday of this week he expressed the opinion to some Pittsburgh friends that present conditions and future prospects in the trade justified higher prices for both classes of the stock.

Local Bond Market. Outlook.

There were no transactions in bonds on the local exchange yesterday and the total sales for the month of June reached only $71,000. The manager of the bond department of one of the large trust companies said yesterday:

"There is no bond market in the true sense of the word. We have quite a good bond or two bonds from day to day, and about the middle of this month there should be a little better demand, representing the reinvestment of interest and dividend money, but I do not look for a good market for bonds for at least seven months. If the crops are good, and we get through the coming fall without a pinch in money, there should be a good bond market after the turn of the year. Houses which are carrying large lines of bonds are not attempting to force them on the public. They are simply holding off, feeling that a change will occur late this year or early next year, and that in any event bonds can be marketed now only at a sacrifice."

Better Feeling Abroad.

A Pittsburgh business man who has a relative in London received a letter from the latter this week in which the writer stated that there was a decidedly better feeling in foreign financial circles. He says the gold coming in from South Africa is the primary cause and that, from the preparations being made to work the mines, the output of the latter will soon exceed the total monthly production attained under the control of the Boer war. English financiers are looking with greater favor upon American railway stocks at current prices, and it nothing occurs to mar crop prospects, Europe will be a buyer in our market.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

At the annual meeting of the Iron and Glass Dollar Savings Bank of the South Side the old board was re-elected.

The Home Trust Company opened for business yesterday in its own building, formerly the home of the National Bank of Commerce, corner of Wood street and Sixth avenue. The number of accounts opened was quite gratifying, the total deposits for the day amounting to $100,000.

The Commonwealth Trust Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, and added $20,000 to undivided profits, increasing the latter to $180,000. This is the second quarterly dividend declared by the company, which has been opened for business a little less than a year.

The Tennessee Copper Company yesterday declared its initial dividend, being 2½ per cent, payable July 20 to stock of record July 10.

Reports received in Pittsburgh from the Lumber Mining Company indicate that the company is at last on a paying basis. Its earnings during the last three weeks in April were $22,000, and for the month of May amounted to $30,000.

Six months' time money was offered as low as 5 per cent in New York yesterday.

The surplus earnings of the Rock Island system for the month of May were $867,000. For the 11 months of its fiscal year the surplus earnings amount to $15,000,000.

The United States National Bank will open for business this morning in its new building, 503 Market and Liberty streets. The new stock of the bank is now fully paid.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Dollar Savings Fund and Trust Company, Allegheny, has been called for September 3 to vote upon a proposition to increase the capital.

Yesterday's New York clearing house balance footed up $24,607,450, which is close to the high-record level, and is a reflection of heavy financial transaction incident to the turn of the fiscal year.

"There is nothing to indicate serious decline in the iron and steel industry for another year at least," said Dan. Openlander of the Republic Iron & Steel Company yesterday. "A large amount of finished products is needed all over the country, and now that the half year has been passed there is going to be nothing but liberal sales will follow a brisk industry which has been in evidence several weeks past. We are booked full up to the late fall months and the situation is entirely satisfactory. Of course prices are lower, but the condition favors larger sales."

Transactions in stock on the New York stock exchange during June aggregated 19,948,020 shares, as compared with 11,440,018 in May and 7,237,646 in June, 1902. In bonds the total par value of transactions for June was $27,236,000, as compared with $32,231,500 in May of this year, and $79,600,000 for June, 1902.

The following table shows the volume of trading in stocks and bonds for each month of the year to date, as compared with the same figures for last year:

A broker, who has just returned from a trip through the south, says New Orleans has gone crazy over cotton speculation. Bootblacks, waiters, porters, in fact, everybody who can raise a few dollars, is speculating in cotton. Of course, there are the usual stories of fortunes having been made by actresses' boarding-house keepers, etc. The scene is said to resemble very much what Wall street witnessed during the Brooklyn Rapid Transit boom. It is to be hoped, for the sake of the small speculators who are following the wild speculation in cotton, that it will not have a similar end to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit boom.

An initial transaction in American Car Manufacturing Company stock on the Curb exchange occurred yesterday, when 100 shares sold at 18.

The Thatcher-Walker Company yesterday fulfilled the provisions of its sinking fund by buying and retiring $12,000 of its bonds. The company's bonded debt is $2,500,000, 6 per cent 20-year collateral trust bonds, of which $500,000 is reserved to provide for the redemption of the $1,500,000 original issue of the old Hutchison-Walker Company.

At the close of the local stock market yesterday the members of the stock exchange gave a vote of thanks to Mr. M. K. McMullin, who presented the exchange with a handsome new clock, capable of operating during the hottest days.

Pittsburgh Oil and Gas was offered at 77 at the close, with 75 bid.

IRON AND STEEL MARKET QUIET

Usual Summer Inactivity Is Noticeable--Low Price Reported for Bessemer Billets.

FOUNDRY IRON DEMAND GOOD

Strikes in Building Trades Affect Structural Material--Coke Moves As Rapidly as Cars Can Be Secured--Hardware Business Good.

Quietness, which is to be expected at this time of the year, prevails in the iron and steel market, manufacturers being accustomed to look upon the month of July, especially its first two or three weeks, as a period of inactivity, during which inventories are taken. As it is at present, there is no more than the customary cessation in buying, and a hopeful tone is evident throughout all lines of the iron industry.

It is reported that the United States Steel Corporation sold Bessemer billets for $25 per ton at mill during the week. The sale as rumored was not a large one, but the figure mentioned is considerably lower than prices heretofore named, and indicates an easier feeling in the market.

Bessemer pig is selling only in small lots, purchasers ordering for immediate needs, and prices remain as they were a week ago, quotations ranging from $18 60 to $19, valley furnace. Foundry iron is showing more life than for some time, sales and inquiries increasing, while prices remain as quoted last week. Gray forge is not moving very freely, but prices are steady.

In finished material about the only thing in the way of feature is that structural material is slower than it should be, building trade strikes having so interfered with operations that a number of projects have been abandoned. While there is some improvement in certain sections of the country, in others there is still a complete tie-up, and it is now so late in the season that, although contractors will be glad to have an opportunity to finish work already started, many new buildings which had been contemplated will be allowed to go over until next year.

Coke is being shipped from ovens as fast as cars can be secured, some transportation trouble being reported in available, and blockades in railroad yards here and there are evidence of congestion. Coke is being stocked at furnaces by producers, who are anxious to guard against interference with steady running when the fall season opens.

The scarcity and high price of labor throughout the country is the best kind of proof of the continued reign of activity in manufacturing centers, it being a noteworthy fact that much business is often found in the number of idle workmen. Such is not the case now, as men for occasional work are hard to find, and western farmers are offering liberal inducements in wages for help in the harvest fields.

Summer Goods in Demand.

Summer weather has increased the quantity of orders for seasonable hardware, such as screen doors, window cloth, freezers and refrigerators. As noted before business of this character was simply deferred until the arrival of warm weather. Nails and wire continue to move out steadily in large volume, there being apparently no let-up in demand for these goods. Builders' hardware is in good demand, better quality of goods having the call. Bicycles and sundries are also in the fair selling, increasing the amount of business done. Albion tools are moving in unusual volume, the amount of business showing a decided increase over the same time last year. Wood working tools are in good quantity, the trade apparently buying for their wants, and these are quite considerable. Mixed paints, colors and varnishes continue in the hands of dealers in only limited quantities. Prices on turpentine and linseed oil continue about as they have been, the only difficulty being in getting supplies. Quite an extensive business has been done for the last few weeks in the sale of blank cartridges for July 4, and also an enormous trade in revolvers. A large number of orders is coming in for fall shipments of shotguns and rifles, while the trade is preparing for the largest season's business that has been looked for in years.

BOYISH MURDERER CONFESSES CRIME

Admits Burying 15-Months-Old Baby in Old Abandoned Iron Works.

LAD IS PERFECTLY SANE

Sits in Jail All Day Long Singing Popular Songs—Attempt to Commit Similar Crime Lead to His Detection.

(Correspondence of The Gazette.)

LONDON, June 23.—Probably there are few crimes to match that which has just horrified all England—the deliberate killing of a 15 months' old baby by a boy of 8 years.

Not only did Pat Knowles, who before his arrest, sold matches in the streets of Stockton-on-Tees, murder one baby by burying it alive, but was in the act of carrying off another, probably to dispose of it in a similar way, when the police took him. There is no reason why this urchin should have wished to harm either of the babies—and the boy's behavior in court, where he listened with absolute indifference to the discussion of his crime, and in his cell, where he spends most of his time in bawling popular songs, has been astonishing.

Pat Knowles is a typical ragged boy of the streets. He has a father and mother and one little sister, all wretchedly poor. The baby he killed was the child of another poor couple named Hughes. Knowles carried the infant off as it was crawling about on the sidewalk—quite a number of other children being at play near by—and lugged it out into the suburbs of Stockton-on-Tees, to a place where are the ruins of an abandoned iron works. The interior is a mass of rubbish.

Matter-of-Fact Confession.

A gruesome little "confession," which Knowles was persuaded to make to the police magistrate tells what happened in the old iron works. The urchin says: "I laid the baby down and made a hole with my hands. I put the baby on his back. He woke up and called 'Mammy.' I lifted his 'pinny' (pinafore) over his face and pulled the muck onto him with my hands. He was crying and kicking. He tried to get up. I put some bricks and big stone on him. I then left and went home."

Of course, the baby was missed almost immediately. Its distracted parents searched for the infant all that night and all the next day. Then another little boy, who had happened to look into the old iron works, rushed back to the town with a white face to tell that he had seen the leg and foot of a baby sticking out of a heap of debris. When the infant's body was brought to light it was lying on its right side, the face being covered with a pinafore.

No one could imagine how the baby had come by its death, and Pat Knowles might never have been suspected of its murder had he not tried to kill another infant. This was a little girl, and the boy-murderer stole her out of the baby carriage in which she was being wheeled by her 6-year-old brother. Knowles ran off with his little intended victim as fast as he could, but the baby's brother had had presence of mind enough to hurry back and tell his mother, who rescued the child and spoke to the police with the result that Knowles was arrested immediately.

His Don't-Care Manner.

This child-criminal is so small that as he sat in court on the low bench upon which he was placed, instead of in the dock, his feet did not touch the floor. But his absolute atheism was what horrified everyone in the court room, his half-crazed parents and little sister most of all. Had his offense, or the charge made around him was speaking, been the stealing of a mere apple the small perpetrator could not have been less concerned about it. His lawyer, who pleaded "not guilty" on his behalf, would not allow him to speak, and so he sat there, gaping indifferently about him, while the mothers of the two babies told their stories and the various child witnesses gave their evidence.

Everyone supposed, however, that this was just boyish bravado and that, once back in his cell, the youthful murderer would break down. Far from it! When Pat Knowles is not absorbed by the boys' copper papers, which are demanded as soon as he was imprisoned, he is singing "Doiliz Gray" and "Good-by, Mignonette" with all the strength of his lungs, his jailers not having the heart to stop him.

Meantime, however, a medical officer has decided that the child is perfectly sane. CURTIS BROWN.

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

NEW HAVEN, CONN., July 1.—A party of 12 graduates of the class of 1903 sailed for Europe today on the steamer Oceanic. It is said here that one of the party, Joseph B. Thomas of New York, captain of Yale's track athletic team, will ultimately go on to Russia to the scene of the recent massacres.

The party will first tour the continent and most of them will return in a few months. The others of the party are Clifford Cochran of Yonkers, who was the richest student at Yale; Harry W. Dupuy of Allegheny, Pa.; Mansfield Ferry and George Porter of Chicago; W. S. Fulton and George A. Goss of Waterbury, Conn.; Henry James of Baltimore; Augustus K. Oliver of Pittsburgh; Reeve Schley of New York; D. P. Thompson of Chicago, and William B. Tyler of New Haven.

OFFER TO MACHINISTS.

Manufacturers Willing to Give More Than 5, But Less Than 10 Per Cent Increase.

As members of the International Association of Machinists cannot strike without the sanction of the executive officials of the organization, the machinists, with the exception of the non-union shops, worked yesterday pending the decision of the executive board as to a strike. The manufacturers have decided to offer more than a 5 per cent increase, their final offer.

A meeting of the men will be held tonight in Old City hall to decide whether to accept the increase promised instead of the 10 per cent asked. The manufacturers refuse to state the amount of the increase offered, but it is thought to be 7 per cent. All the other points in the scale were adjusted.

MONESSEN IS BUSY.

Only Two of Its Plants Will Have Long Summer Vacations.

Only two of Monessen's industrial plants will close down for any length of time this summer. The Page Woven Wire Fence Company has notified its employes that the plant will be closed down on Friday and will remain idle until Monday, August 3. The output of the mill has been more than the weaving departments of the Monessen and Adrian (Mich.) plants can work up into fence.

The big plant of the Pittsburgh steel mills will close tomorrow evening for a layoff of two weeks.

The National plant of the United States Steel Corporation will have a layoff of but one day, Saturday. The demand for the 24 is so heavy that a premium of from 15 to 25 cents per ton is being paid for August delivery, and for this reason the 24 mills will be run full time the entire summer.

DOINGS IN THE LABOR WORLD.

Trouble arose in some of the sheet metal workers' shops yesterday and the men quit work. The men claim the manufacturers violated the agreement.

A lively meeting is expected tonight at the Iron City Central Labor council. The subject of the stone masons selecting a Pittsburgh attorney to act as arbitrator instead of a man of national reputation in the labor movement will be considered.

The account of the meeting of the general committee of Labor day celebration, the meeting of the delegates to the new structural trades council, has been postponed until Monday. The structural iron workers have signified their willingness to affiliate with the new organization.

Living up to their threat, the South side undertakers and livery stable proprietors have opened up blacksmith shops, and will have their horseshoeing done in them independent of union men. The shops are alleged to have been established so as to lower the price fixed by the blacksmiths' union.

When the date between the bricklayers and stone masons began the stone cutters refused to prepare material for the bricklayers. This led the masons of the bricklayers' organization to cut the stone as well as set them. Now the dispute is to be arbitrated a committee of the stone cutters went to the bricklayers' headquarters yesterday and asked that the stone cutters be permitted to cut some for the bricklayers' masons. Upon promising they would be neutral hereafter, the request was granted.

Octogenarian Arrested for Drunkenness.

Mrs. Fannies Best, 78 years old, was arraigned before Magistrate Thomas D. Stewart at Central station yesterday on the charge of drunkenness. She was the oldest female prisoner ever brought before a Pittsburgh magistrate on such a charge, and was therefore admonished and discharged.

Fighting Man From Brooklyn.

Michael Cunningham of Brooklyn, N. Y., was sent to the workhouse yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct. Cunningham raised a row in a saloon in Rebecca street, Allegheny, and put up a stiff fight when the policeman arrested him.

MECKEL IS RECOVERING.

Will Be Able to Return to Pittsburgh to Face Charges in About Three Weeks.

A telegram was received from Henry Meckel, who shot himself at Ashland, Pa., as told exclusively in Tuesday morning's Gazette, yesterday, stating that he was doing well. He was to appear before Alderman Anderson, yesterday and answer charges of embezzlement preferred by Samuel Woodward, and also answer charges of false pretense preferred by H. H. Ketering. It is thought Meckel left Pittsburgh and intended to commit suicide, but did not shoot himself in a vital place.

Meckel will be able to come to Pittsburgh in about three weeks to stand trial.

ASKED THE TIME OF DAY; CLAIMED THE WATCH

William Loftus and John Toole, about 16 years old, were held for court yesterday on the charge of assaulting Granville Smith of Beltzhoover. Smith claims that he was resting on the Duquesne wharf when Loftus asked him the time. When Smith pulled out his watch Loftus claimed it and struck Smith in the face with a brick.

Anxious Boy Caused a Fire.

A fire broke out in the stable of William Rea, No. 17 Magnolia street, Allegheny, early yesterday morning. Rea brought some carrier pigeons from New York recently and presented them to his son, William Rea, Jr. The boy became uneasy about the pigeons yesterday morning and went out to the stable to see them. He lighted a match and found the pigeons safe. Then he fell asleep, but the match had not been put out. The boy escaped injury, but the fire did $400 damage.

Oakland's Carrie Nation.

Mrs. Mary Hammell of Second avenue, near Bates street, was ordered to forfeit $10 or to serve 30 days in the workhouse on a charge of disorderly conduct yesterday. She was arrested in Oithridge street while carrying a hatchet in her hand and flourishing it. She created quite a disturbance in the neighborhood, as it was at first thought she was insane.

Allegheny Officer Promoted.

John Bopp, a member of the Allegheny police force, who has had charge of the federal street route for some time, has been promoted to the lieutenancy of the Second district. He takes the place of Lieut. James McIntyre, recently resigned. Policeman C. Smith succeeded Bopp when the latter assumed his new duties last night.

DISGUSTED BURGLAR IS CAPTURED AT WORK

Detective Frank Bell and Constable J. J. Cavanaugh of Homestead arrested John Johnson, who claims McKeesport as his home, while he was attempting to break into a clothing store in Eighth avenue, Homestead, early yesterday. The officers saw Johnson on the street early in the evening and decided to watch him. Shortly after midnight he went into a cellar under a clothing store and after working for nearly an hour in an effort to open a trapdoor leading to the store was about to leave the place in disgust, when the officers arrested him.
